Mrs. FDR's Energy Source

Being a long and faithful admirer of Mrs. Franklin D. Roosevelt, whom I believe to be a really great person, I was interested to read an article by her explaining her great source of energy. (Harper's, January.)

Energy, she believes, wells up from retaining interest in the people "who tie one to life—perhaps the most important thing is to keep alive our love for others and to believe that our love and interest are as vitally necessary to them as to us. This is what makes us keep on growing and refills the fountains of energy."

It was not surprising to read that she had never found coffee or tea, or any other stimulants, helpful as a remedy for weariness. She does take care of her health, minds her doctor, and takes the vitamins which he prescribes.

What enchanted me, however, was to read that the doctor prescribes, and she faithfully takes, "some chocolate-coated garlic pills which are supposed to have a beneficial effect on my memory, which is nothing to brag about."

Shopping

This sent me to shopping. My own memory is like that of the elephant, in some directions, and notoriously deficient in others, names being one. Two health shops, dealing in nature's remedies, had to my astonishment, shelves of garlic pills, tablets and capsules. The inevitable hand of the 20th Century was seen in some of them. Adequate (so the label said) amounts of odor-killing chlorophyl have been placed in the capsules by some of the manufacturers. Still others, the nonconformists, boasted their garlic preparations were pure and undiluted. Presumably, the patient who takes these will have a rich, revealing breath.

None, however, had the chocolate-coated variety, though their displays were rich and varied. Warning them to telephone dealers to air-express supplies ere the horde of poor-memory patients swamped them on reading of Mrs. Roosevelt's use of them, I busied myself with a modest chore of research. I think well of garlic, believing it goes well with all foods, save, possibly, ice cream. It is indispensable in certain dishes, notably lamb, salad, certain stews and roasts. Nor is it true, as the cynics say, that there is no such thing as a little garlic. It may be used discreetly. Once, in a small Greek town, I ate garlic, sliced on bread, along with cheese. It was excellent, but this is recommended only when all present participate.

In Numbers 11:5 we read, "We remember the fish, which we did eat in Egypt freely, the cucumbers, and the melons, the leeks, the onions and the garlic."

A Noble

Certainly, garlic is of honorable antiquity, one of the nobles of the edible perennials. Native to Asia and all the Mediterranean area, it was introduced to Western Europe by the Crusaders.

Herodotus records an ancient inscription in the great pyramid of Cheops, stating that the sum of 1,600 talents of silver had been paid to supply the workers with "onions, garlic and radishes while the pyramid was being built." The Hebrew talent of silver is worth, by weight, about $2,176 in U.S. currency. This means the builders of the pyramids ate up about $3,481,600 worth of garlic, onions and radishes. Its use in cooking was popular well before the days of Moses.

The Romans used it and liked it. The Emperor Vespasian once said to a youth who reeked of perfume, "I'd sooner you stank of garlic."

It long has been used in medicine as a digestive stimulant and as an antispasmodic. While doctors today are loathe publicly to endorse any of the old herbal remedies, there admittedly is some evidence that garlic is a digestive and that it promotes circulation. This might, they say, help improve the memory by getting more blood and oxygen to the brain.

Thank you, Mrs. Roosevelt. I'll try another shop.

Chilly Reception Given Mikoyan

By MICHAEL JAMES

(Copyright, 1959, The New York Times Co.)

WASHINGTON — Anastas Mikoyan, the Deputy Premier of the Soviet Union and the number two man in the ruling Russian hierarchy, received a chilly reception as he arrived Sunday for a two-week "holiday" in the United States.

He landed at Idlewild Airport aboard a Scandinavian Airlines System DC-7C from Copenhagen. The plane arrived at 5:11 a.m., nearly two hours ahead of schedule. The airline said the plane was early because of unexpected tailwinds. Some police on hand said the tailwinds may have been a diplomatic move to outwit an expected unpleasant reception by iron curtain refugees.

Arkady Sobolev, the head of the Soviet delegation to the United Nations; Mikhail Menshikov, the Soviet Ambassador to Washington, and a group of New York and Washington-based Soviet diplomats were on hand to greet Mikoyan. So were 180 policemen.

There was no one from city, state or federal governments except a group of worried State department security people. Diplomatically, the arrival was completely unofficial.

Plans for construction of a community-type general hospital in Atlanta were announced Sunday by the Holy Family Hospital and Medical Center, Inc.

The hospital, which eventually will have 250 beds, will be built on 82 acres which have been purchased on Harwell road, northwest, northeast of the intersection of Collier drive. Two major highways proposed in the master highway plan for the area would intersect nearby.

The hospital will be operated by the Medical Mission Sisters, whose headquarters are in Philadelphia, Pa. Operations of the order in Atlanta are under direction of Sister M. Theophane.

Sends Data 343,750 Mi. To the Earth

By HAROLD K. MILKS

MOSCOW (AP)—The Soviet Union's cosmic rocket blazed an ever lengthening trail into space Sunday and was reported gradually entering into orbit around the sun, with its radio still sending scientific information back to earth.

The latest announcement Sunday night said the 1½-ton missile was 343,750 miles from the earth at 10 p.m. As it sped through space toward the sun, its distance from the moon at that time was 112,500 miles, the broadcast said.

SKIRTS MOON

It had overshot the moon at 5:59 a. m. Sunday, approaching within about 4,700 miles of that satellite of the earth at its closest.

Tass, official news agency, said it would enter its orbit around the sun by Jan. 7 or 8 and thus become the first artificial planet in the sun's system.

As it headed toward the sun, more than 93 million miles from the earth, Tass said it was gradually entering an elliptical orbit.

This orbit, by Russian estimate, would have a maximum diameter of 214¾ million miles and a minimum of 91½ million miles. The rocket's closest approach to the sun would be 91½ million miles and this would be reached Jan. 14, the estimates said, adding it would take 15 months for the rocket to complete the circuit.

FORCE INCREASES

As it moved deeper into space from earth and moon, the influence of these two planets lessened and the gravitational force of the sun increased.

Tass said the instruments and transmitters continued to function normally, reporting back data to

Merchants See Bright '59 Here

Three Atlanta retail merchandising executives painted a bright picture of 1959 prosperity for Atlanta Sunday.

The merchants were guests on Press Gallery, WSB-TV panel show, sponsored this week by The Constitution. The guests were Joseph Asher, a director of Rich's; Joseph Ross, president of Davison's, and Virgil W. Milton, retail store manager of Sears.

The panelists agreed that 1959 would see no increase in prices, but an increase in the quality of goods sold, particularly in the department store field.

SEE RISE IN SALES

They predicted an increase in sales of family recreation goods, brought on mainly by the development of water sports at the man-made lakes bordering the Atlanta trade area.

Asher said that retail stores should always have a "conservative, optimistic" attitude and should not plan for any depression. He said that in spite of all talk of recession, 1958's volume of sales was greater than 1957's.

Milton agreed, saying that 1958's December sales "reached a very high note."

Ross said there were enough "stabilizers in the income of the average family to build-in strength in the national economy."

MENTIONS FASHIONS

Ross said he is happy the trade is getting into "good looking fashions" rather than some of the odd looking "trapeze" fashions of the immediate past.

"It should be a good year for fashions," he said.

Asher took up the fashion talk, saying that men's fashions are more stable. "We have more Ivy Leaguers walking the streets of Atlanta than ever graduated from

Two Decatur sales executives—both of them World War II air heroes—were killed Sunday in a head-on automobile collision on a snow-packed highway in northwest Indiana.

The driver of the second car, Dr. Paul Lasakow, 34, of Birmingham, Ala., was also killed.

Negro Pastors' Suit Due To Be Heard Today

Trial of the suit of two Negro ministers against segregation on trolleys here is scheduled to be heard in U.S. District Court here at 10 a.m. Monday.

Defense attorneys, representing state and city officials, have requested that the case be left to state courts, awaiting "an authoritative interpretation" of the statutes involved.

The ministers were arrested in January, 1957, for attempting to ride contrary to the segregated seating arrangement on buses here. Their cases are still pending in Fulton Superior Court. The defense filed a brief saying the arrests were made "according to previous arrangements with their (the ministers') attorney."

By BEN FUNK

HAVANA, Cuba (AP)—Rebel leader Fidel Castro Sunday night called off the general strike that has paralyzed Cuba since his bearded rebels took over from Fulgencio Batista's dictatorship.

A broadcast by Havana radio said Castro urged all workers to go back to their jobs. All stores and business establishments in this island nation, closed down since New Year's Day, were told to open their doors. Industries, transport and communications were told to resume regular work schedules.

Castro spoke from Camaguey province in Central Cuba, Havana radio said.

The end of the general strike is expected to be a major move toward bringing the once-flourishing commerce and trade in Cuba — sometimes called "the Pearl of the Antilles"—back to normal.

Another move was an order from Castro's men to disarm thousands of eager young volunteers who have been prowling the streets of Havana, guns at ready.

An end to the strike also indicated that rebel forces felt the security situation in Havana had stabilized and they were on no serious danger from a countercoup.

Things have still not calmed sufficiently, however, to permit regular airline travel in and out of Cuba. A spokesman for Pan American World Airways, denying an earlier report, said neither his line nor any other company has received permission from the pro-

Ft. Pulaski To Be Ready For '61 War Centennial

Are Georgia's national park areas prepared to commemorate the Civil War centennial that begins in 1961? Are facilities at the parks adequate for the observance and can the anticipated number of visitors be accommodated? These and other questions are answered by Leo Aikman, Constitution columnist. The accompanying article is the second in a series of three.

By LEO AIKMAN

The national park in Georgia first to be engaged, chronologically, in a centennial anniversary will be Ft. Pulaski, at Savannah.

The "five-star" fortification on Cockspur Island in the mouth of the Savannah River was 18 years in the building, 1829-1846. The name honors Count Pulaski, our Polish friend in the Revolution. "Five-star" refers to the shape of the fort, not to its strategic rank.

Among the U.S. Engineers assigned to the fort during its construction was Lt. Robert E. Lee.

Pulaski was built as the defense for Savannah, chief port of Georgia. The five-sided building is of brick, with walls 1,580 feet in circumference, 32 feet high and 7 to 11 feet thick. The fort and its outerworks cover nine acres and are surrounded by a wide moat crossed by drawbridges.

Cockspur Island has been used for defensive purposes for more than two centuries. The Navy had a section base on the island in World War II.

But the role of the island and its part in trade and commerce, as a site for lighthouses and beacons, for quarantine and pilotage activities, for transhipment of colonists and cargoes, is more sigvisional government to resume commercial flights.

DELTA TO RESUME

(However, a Delta Air Lines spokesman in Atlanta said Sunday night that he had talked by phone with the airline's regional manager in Havana and that the airport would be in normal operation Monday. He said Delta will resume service there Monday.)

Conquering hero Fidel Castro kept this old Cuban capital waiting impatiently for his arrival. But with Cuba in the palm of his hand, he was reported to be saying he had no intention of exercising personal power.

The leader of the 25-month revolt against Fulgencio Batista was advancing slowly at the head of a column of his bearded warriors, pausing at each town to receive a hysterical welcoming from screaming crowds. He was reported reviewing troops in Camaguey Sunday morning, 350 miles east of Havana.

CASTRO EXPECTED

The 32-year-old rebel chief has been appointed head of the armed forces by Manuel Urrutia, who took the oath as provisional president at a ceremony Saturday night in Santiago de Cuba, the provisional capital in the eastern province of Oriente.

There was no official hint as to when Castro, or Urrutia whom he boosted to office, would reach Havana. There were reports however, that Castro expected to arrive Wednesday.

Urrutia presumably was still in Santiago, which apparently is to remain the capital for the time.

But the Urrutia government, by radio orders, went a long way toward restoring order and security in Havana by instructing the thousands of enthusiastic young volunteers here to surrender their arms to regular army troops.

LIQUOR SALES BANNED

Only a few of these gun-toting patriots were seen on the streets Sunday. It seemed most of them had obeyed. For the first time since Batista fled the land at New Year's dawn, the city took on something approaching a peaceful appearance.

Col. Ramon Barquin, a regular army man who was a Batista prisoner until last Thursday, took over the reorganization of the army for Castro at Camp Columbia, Cuba's biggest army base just outside Havana. Still wearing his prison fatigues, Barquin continued Sunday a tight ban on liquor sales as another security measure.

Army men at Columbia, never disarmed, now wear Castro armbands and lounge in friendly groups with the Castro veterans.

ACUTE FOOD SHORTAGE

Many Cuban families lack refrigeration and buy perishables on a meal-to-meal basis. The strike caught them with scant supplies and an acute food shortage has developed.

The government announced that newspapers, closed by the strike, were free to resume publication at noon Sunday, however. Havana's police chief also announced he had authorized permits for press and radio news cars to circulate freely.

Castro's storybook warriors, with their long waving hair and beards, grown in months of fighting in the mountains, continued to pour into the city in trucks, tanks and armored cars.

The arrival of this combat-hardened force seemingly eliminated any possibility of a Batista counterstroke in the capital.

A Super Constellation flew to Varadero, a resort 80 miles east of here, to evacuate about 90 Americans to Miami.

Rebels Spurn Reds, Bottle Up Diehards

By WILLIAM L. RYAN

HAVANA, Cuba (AP)—Heavily armed revolutionary forces converged Sunday on a dowtown labor union building ready to fight with die-hard Batista elements holed up inside.

Cuban Communists also attempted to muscle in on the mop-up operation directed against some of the last resistance from forces of ousted dictator Fulgencio Batista.

But Fidel Castro's militiamen spurned their help.

After the Communists announced they would try to take over the union building, revolutionary headquarters rushed reinforcements to the area. For an hour the atmosphere was loaded with tension, but the Castro men talked it out with the Reds.

Officers of Castro's 26th of July movement said the Communists had nothing to do with their plans to get the diehards out of the construction workers' building, where supporters of Eusebio Mujal had barricaded themselves. Mujal, Batista's labor boss, had taken refuge in the Argentine Embassy.

The militiamen used loudspeakers in an attempt to persuade the holdouts to give up. They remained in the building.

Several hours later the militia forces had dwindled to just a few who were patrolling the streets around the building. The area was sealed off by roadblocks and it appeared the militia had settled down to wait out the situation.

There is little question the Communists want to assert authority in the Cuban labor movement.

The party was outlawed by former President Fulgencio Batista and has lost much of its underground strength in recent years. But it is believed to have a hard core of around 8,000 members, some of whom are armed and able to start trouble.

Castro's 26 of July movement advocates extending civil liberties to all shades of opinion and probably will legalize the Communist party. But there seems little doubt it will try to keep the party at arm's length.

Castro's forces have done an astonishing job of keeping order in a revolutionary and at times almost anarchistic situation. But the big danger is that the shortage of food could cause widespread unrest.

Cubans have been surprisingly patient and coperative under their trials after the initial binge of New Year's Day when the sudden departure of Batista for the Dominican Republic left this country without government.

Many citizens offered their services freely to the revolutionary command. A group of fishermen appeared at the headquarters Sunday and offered their whole day's catch for hospitals.

Castro's young country warriors captivated American tourists caught here by the revolution. The young fighters were quartered by the hundreds in tourist hotels.

Many tourists posed with their arms draped around the heavily armed, long-haired fighters.

Democrat Design for '59: Seal Ranks, Back Dulles

By JAMES RESTON

(Copyright, 1959, The New York Times Co.)

WASHINGTON—The Texas leadership of the Democratic Party has arrived in the capital with strategy prepared for the first phase of the 86th Congress. It is to avoid an angry and dramatic split in the Democratic ranks, to move fast on labor racketeering, housing and community development legislation, and to back President Eisenhower on foreign policy.

This may not conform to the wishes of the Democratic liberals, but those two Democratic counter-revolutionaries from Texas, Speaker Rayburn in the House and majority leader Johnson in the Senate, seem to be in charge for the moment.

Lyndon Johnson

"Mr. Sam" hadn't been in town more than a few hours before he had quelled at least two potential revolts among the House liberals.

First he put an end to the threat to amend the rules of the House rules committee which enabled that committee to bottle up legislation before it can get to the floor for debate. He did this by assuring Rep. Chet Holifield, (D-Cal), that he would use his influence to see that essential legislation did not get bottled up.

"What'll I tell the others who want the rules changed?" Rep. Holifield asked.

"Tell 'em everything I've told you," replied the Speaker.

"Will you see them and tell them yourself?"

"I'll see them if you insist," Rayburn told him, "but I'll just repeat what I've told you; and if we have a meeting the reporters will be all over us, and that won't be good. My first job is to avoid a big fuss."

PARTY CAUCUS

Meanwhile, Rayburn had a talk with Dr. Dale Alford, the segregationist from Little Rock who defeated Representative Hays, and now faces a movement to deny him a seat in the House. Rayburn suggested that Dr. Alford not show up at the party caucus before the opening of Congress Wednesday.

The Speaker also proposed that Dr. Alford allow other new members to be sworn in first on Wednesday and then be seated provisionally—pending the outcome of an investigation of his election. Alford agreed to this procedure.

Sam Rayburn

Sen. Johnson is in a more difficult position. He is trying to lead a large Democratic majority (64-34) in a Senate studded with potential Democratic presidential nominees.

Some of these are determined to change the rules of the Senate so that a simple majority of the total membership can bring any issue to a vote. This now takes two-thirds of the total membership.

Johnson may achieve a compromise by backing a motion to permit closure when two-thirds, not of the total membership but of those present and voting, agree to do so, but another complicating factor, not of his own making is beginning to arise.

This is that forces within the Democratic Party are beginning to urge Sen. Johnson himself for the Democratic presidential nomination. He has repeatedly opposed this on the grounds that he was not a candidate, and that any such movement would hamper his leadership in the Senate.

Nevertheless, a group of influential Democrats, said to include Speaker Rayburn, former Secretary of State Acheson and former President Truman, now favor either Johnson or Sen. Symington of Missouri for the nomination. And they are reported to feel that both Johnson and Symington must be brought more prominently into the presidential race soon if they are to have a good chance for the nomination in 1960.

GENERALLY BELIEVED

It is generally believed here that Sen. Kennedy (D-Mass) has made more progress in the last year than any other potential Democrat nominee. In fact, while nobody here will concede it openly, something of a "stop Kennedy" movement is already under way.

Of all Kennedy's potential rivals, Johnson is believed to have the best chance of convincing Kennedy to accept the vice presidential nomination on a Johnson-Kennedy ticket. He has boosted Kennedy in the Senate. He was behind the moves to get him the vice presidential nomination in 1956, and if anybody could slow down the Kennedy pace it is probably Johnson.

John Kennedy

LARGER STRUGGLE

This, at least, is the argument of those Democrats who are now urging the Texan to think not only about the 1959 struggle in Congress but about the larger struggle for the presidency in 1960.

He has not fallen in with any such plan to date, and frankly is not likely to do so in the foreseeable future. He is talking legislation and the tactics of the Senate, and nothing more. But he is not the only leader of the Democratic Party. Others are working behind the scenes to bring him into the race, and this is likely to complicate his Senate leadership, regardless of what he does.

Steady Rise Seen For '59 Business

WASHINGTON (AP)—A government-sponsored survey of the 1959 outlook for industry points to a steady but not spectacular rise in business activity.

The Commerce Department Sunday made public a far-ranging consensus of experts pinpointing three elements as the key to an ticipated improvement in the new year:

KEY FACTORS

1. A predicted 30 per cent increase in auto production.

2. Record activity in the construction field—the nation's biggest single industry.

3. A prospective continuation of the strong recovery in steel output.

The report, reflecting sentiment in both government and industry gave this appraisal of the auto outlook:

"The skies are clearing in this industry whose operating level affects so vitally many segments of the U. S. economy."

AUTO OUTLOOK

Production of 5½ million passenger cars was forecast—a 30 per cent rise over 1958's 10-year low. A 20 per cent increase in truck production, to one million units, was foreseen.

All of this, the department said, bodes well for four industries which get most of their business from the automakers — metals, glass, rubber and upholstery leather.

The report said construction activity will top 50 billion dollars for the first time and mark a new high in physical volume as well as dollar volume.

Advance estimates put construction spending at $52,300,000,000, up 7 per cent from 1958. Construction of about 1,200,000 new homes was predicted.

Public construction, including road building, is expected to jump 14 per cent while private building is figured for a 4 per cent gain.

This expansion will be reflected in rising sales of building materials and heating equipment, the department said.

Ingot production of steel was forecast at 105 to 110 million tons, up from 85 million tons in 1958 but still below the 1955 record of 117 million tons.

Ike Returns, Bipartisan Parley Due

WASHINGTON (AP)—President Eisenhower returned to the White House late Sunday, ending a 10-day New Year work vacation at his farm near Gettysburg, Pa.

Eisenhower left the farm at 2:30 p. m. by car and arrived here at 4:38 p. m.

He will meet Monday with 14 Democratic and 12 Republican leaders of the incoming Congress to discuss foreign policy and related portions of the State of the Union address he is scheduled to deliver Friday.

The President attended church this morning with Mrs. Eisenhower and their 10-year-old grandson David.

DESPITE NONFARM PEAK

Mitchell Sees Jobs Continuing Scarce

WASHINGTON (AP)—Secretary of Labor James P. Mitchell predicted Sunday that jobs will remain scarce in early 1959 but that nonfarm employment will soar to the highest point in history before the year ends.

Mitchell's statement said the stage is set for a healthy recovery which will push the economy to new highs. He said consumers and businessmen alike are in a good position to go forward.

Latest government figures show 64,653,000 Americans employed last November, compared with the record number of 67,221,000 employed in July 1957. Latest nonfarm employment is 58,958,000 compared with the August 1957 record of 59,562,000.

"With demand improving briskly, before 1959 is over there will be more people in nonfarm jobs than ever before in history," Mitchell said.

"But we must not ignore the fact that we still have too much unemployment. The situation is improving steadily, even though joblessness will rise in January and February as a result of seasonal factors.

"However, as is generally true in a period such as the present, employment does not expand as rapidly as production and we may very well have substantial pools of unemployment continuing well into 1959."

Some government economists say privately the jobless total, which was 3,833,000 in November, the latest figure, will rise again this winter to about five million, or close to the figure at the same time last winter.

Mitchell said industry is beginning to replenish depleted inventories and to increase plant and equipment outlays. He said consumers have increased savings.

"The outlook for the near future is for continued over-all stability in prices and rising incomes, so that further increases in consumer purchasing power and demand are very likely," he said.

No Kidnap Clues As Father Pleads

NEW YORK (UPI)—The heartbroken father of a newborn infant snatched from her Brooklyn hospital crib Friday night pleaded with the kidnaper Sunday to surrender the baby anonymously to any public institution.

One of the nation's foremost trial lawyers offered to act as intermediary if the kidnaper would step forward with the baby. He promised the abductor full legal representation without cost, if the baby was returned unharmed.

"I would walk from here to Cincinnati and drop all my other activities to get that child back into her mother's arms," said 75-year-old James D. C. Murray, who has 10 grandchildren.

FBI agents painstakingly retraced every step of their investigation without turning up a single new clue to the fate of Lisa Rose Chionchio, who was scarcely 2½ hours old when she was taken from St. Peter's Hospital at about 11:45 p.m. Friday.

The baby should have been placed on a special formula and feeding schedule Saturday, but doctors said she could survive 72 hours—until Monday—without any food at all, provided she was not abandoned to die in the bitter winter cold.

Police said the 7-pound baby apparently was kidnaped by a bleached blonde woman who went to St. Peter's to select an infant at random after having been frightened from the maternity ward of another hospital nearby. She apparently slipped unnoticed into the hospital nursery, where seven other newborn babies were in bassinets, picked up Lisa Rose and fled with her under her coat.

Saturday afternoon, two boys stumbled on a Christmas-wrapped parcel in an abandoned Brooklyn tenement. The parcel contained a pink hospital blanket and robe and a white shirt identified at the hospital as its property.

But a house-to-house search of the run down neighborhood disclosed no trace of the baby.

Frank D. Chionchio, 28-year-old Port of New York Authority attorney and father of the child, stayed at the bedside of his distraught wife, Frances, 26. They have one other child, a 1-year-old daughter.

2 Prisoners Escape in Guard's Car

Second Break Within 15 Days

LAFAYETTE (AP)—Two teen-age prisoners overpowered an officer who was transferring them from one jail to another Sunday, took his car and fled. It was their second escape in 15 days.

Two other prisoners in the car were set afoot and were walking back to town to surrender when they were picked up.

Deputy sheriff Ben Roper identified the boys still at large as Kenneth P. Fulcher and Joe Howard. They had just been returned to Georgia from Tennessee, where they were picked up following a Dec. 21 break from the Georgia Industrial Institute at Alto.

Roper said Fulcher and Howard overpowered E. H. Kelly, a transfer officer for the State Department of Corrections, about 9:30 Sunday morning about four miles south of LaFayette. They headed south on U.S. 27 in Kelly's car.

Roper gave these details:

Fulcher and Howard were in the front seat with Kelly. Both were handcuffed and were hooked together with a chain. They jumped Kelly, who stopped the car, fought free and jumped out so he could get to his pistol. One of the boys slid under the steering wheel and the car sped away. Kelly did not fire for fear of hitting two other prisoners in the back seat who had taken no part in the break.

The other prisoners, Bobby McCormick and Ollie Tucker, were set afoot a short distance away and began walking back to LaFayette. Both are Walker County boys sentenced to six months each for traffic violations.

C. D. Cooper, assistant superintendent for the Alto detention institution, said Fulcher is 18 and was serving a 66-year sentence from Richmond County for burglary. He said Howard is 16 and was serving a 3-year term from Upson County for auto theft. They fled from Alto Dec. 21 while being taken to breakfast.

IMPROMPTU ARRIVAL—Two automobiles collided at Pryor and Crumley streets, SW, Sunday, and one of the cars then careened into a closed market, crashing open the store front. Stock in the Heap Cheap Market, 599 Pryor St., SW, was damaged. Drivers of both cars were injured. Police charged both of them with failure to yield right of way-accident. They are Benjamin Anderson, 22, of 314 Richardson St., SW, and Rufus Rowe, 43, of 1130 Ridge Ave., SW.

Youths Confess Holdup Of 2 East Point Women

By JAMES SHEPPARD

". . . I could have gotten the money honestly, but I just didn't think."

So ended an armed robbery confession at Atlanta police headquarters Sunday night.

"I am sorry I did what I did but we owed $12.50 house rent and I didn't have it at the time," said Ralph Dino, 20, of 163 North Ave., Northeast.

Dino and Thomas Whittle, 18, of Miami, Fla., were charged with armed robbery of two East Point women leaving Crawford Long Hospital. The robbery victims, Mrs. Robert W. Myatt, of 1653 McClellan Dr., and Mrs. Robert G. Pratt, of 1659 McClellan Dr., had been visiting hospital patients.

TOOK $21.40

The risk Dino and Whittle took could be a costly one. They got $21.40 from the women's wallets last Sunday night. Under Georgia law, armed robbery is punishable with death.

"I held the pistol where they could see it," Dino retraced the robbery, "and said, 'All right, ladies, stay calm, and hand me your wallets.' They made a frightened noise and took their wallets out and handed them to me . . ."

Whittle said he came up from Miami on a trip to Birmingham, Ala., to see a girl friend, but stopped in Atlanta to see a friend, Dino. He said he, Dino, and Dino's wife "went to various stores in Atlanta adn shoplifted . . . and also got a shotgun."

FIRST SAW MOVIE

". . . Ralph went out to see if he could hold up anybody to get any money," Whittle continued. Later, he said, he went to a movie with Dino and Dino's 16-year-old wife Roberta. They were standing in a parking lot near the movie, he said, when they saw the women coming out of the hospital.

"Ralph said, 'This is it: if we are going to do it we are going to do it now.'

"Ralph planned to hold up somebody to get back my money, which they had spent, so I could go on to Alabama."

A gun that shoots blanks was used to accomplish the robbery, Whittle said.

DINO'S WIFE PREGNANT

Whittle and Dino showed robbery squad Detectives O. L. Adams and J. H. Barnes the spot where they discarded the emptied wallets. No charges were made against Dino's teen-age wife, who is pregnant.

Whittle was locked behind bars first. Then Dino, after he had signed his confession, embraced his youthful bride for a few minutes.

"We haven't got much time, honey," Dino said. They embraced and cried. Then he went off to jail.

Church CD Test Evacuates 500

By LEE FUHRMAN

Approximately 500 persons were evacuated from an Atlanta church to a point 17.2 miles from the city Sunday in less than 30 minutes in a civil defense test.

The "evacuees" formed a motorcade of 98 automobiles, with six or more persons in some cars, to the rendezvous point near the Lilburn-Norcross overpass on the Northeast Expressway.

The test was made by members of the Beverly Road Seventh-Day Adventist Church, Beverly road and Peachtree street, marking the first time a church had made such a test.

TEST BEGAN

The "alert" was sounded at 10:15 a.m., following a 10 a.m. service, and the test itself began at 10:30 a.m.

The rendezvous point, to which they were guided by state patrolmen, was reached in 28 minutes, according to the Rev. M. D. Oswald, director of civil defense and welfare for Seventh-Day Adventists in Georgia.

Despite the cold, the "evacuees" remained at the rendezvous until 2:30 p.m., when they dispersed severally. During the time at the rendezvous point, they heard lectures on various phases of civil defense and ate vegetable 'hot dogs" which included vitamins, in a demonstration of mass feeding.

MASS FEEDING

Mrs. Mary Dildy was in charge of the mass feeding.

While most of the "evacuees" were from the church, other participants came from Dahlonega, Chattanooga, Gainesville, Griffin, Macon and Marietta.

Talks were given by Elliott R. Jackson, Metropolitan Atlanta CD director; Col. Carl Zais, CD training officer; Charles Rice, head of the Atlanta chapter of the American Red Cross, B. I. Garland, of the state health department, and Lt. Col. R. E. McMurray, of metropolitan CD, who directed the evacuation in cooperation with church officials.

"This was one of the most successful survival activities done on an independent basis I've ever seen," Jackson said. "They deserve a lot of credit, for they did all this on their own initiative. I hope it inspires other churches to make similar tests."

Atlanta's Milk Had Increase In Strontium 90

Atlanta was one of fuor sampling stations across the nation which reported an increase in September in radioactive strontium-90 content in milk, the Public Health Service in Washington announced Sunday.

But the service added that the strontium-90 in all samples remained well below the levels currently considered permissible for consumption.

The increases between August and September were within the range of recent monthly fluctuations among the sampling stations.

In 1958 you used more electricity than ever before

THE GEORGIA HOMES we serve have set a new record in their use of electricity—an increase of 10.6 per cent over 1957. Commercial and industrial requirements rose 2.6 per cent.

Plenty of power was available for existing customers and the 13,000 new customers added during the year. Since World War II we have invested nearly half a billion dollars in expanding and improving the electrical facilities that serve you. Last year we spent more than $53 million—more than $1 million a week—for construction.

This growth in electric power supply and demand is an important factor in Georgia's economy. Another item of importance is our 1958 tax bill of approximately $27 million, which represents 20 cents of every dollar received. This money is paid to local, state and federal governments and benefits you and all other Georgia citizens.

Tough Issues Face The New Congress

Everyone, including the President, admits the 77-billion-dollar budget proposed by the White House probably won't meet the nation's growth needs. As a matter of fact, it will not be a balanced budget. Its balance will depend upon a number of "ifs" in federal income.

It is the facts of this budget with which the 86th Congress, which convenes Wednesday, must deal once it concludes the decision on rules changes which will be the first order of business.

Rule 22, which permits unlimited debate, has been abused badly. Even most of its supporters admit it is not altogether fair. But there is real reason to fear its total abolition, thus permitting a bare majority of those voting to end debate. This would lead to impulsive action without due deliberation. Southerners privately will compromise for a change to allow limitation of debate by a vote of two thirds of those present and voting, instead of two thirds of the entire Senate as now provided.

The issue now, one may say with some confidence, is not whether there will be a rules change but what it will be. The proposed compromise seems to us greatly to be preferred to the bare majority which would eliminate necessary deliberation.

The White House, admittedly piqued by the Democratic victory and professing not to understand why it happened, sought to place the Democratic majority in a political squeeze with its early announcement of a 77-billion-dollar budget. At the same time, the President with considerable political skill labeled the Democrats as spenders and wasters.

This was strategy by GOP National Chairman Alcorn. It is designed to embarrass the Democrats by allowing the conservative Republicans to cry, "We told you so!" should the Democrats make appropriations which will further unbalance the budget.

The President is listening to former Secretary of the Treasury Humphrey, the same who put the administration early into trouble with tight money policies. The somewhat puzzling switch of the President from his "modern Republican" position to that of the Old Guard complicates the position of Vice President Nixon, who now must walk a tight rope in the party. This is the more true because the shadow of Nelson Rockefeller looms larger daily.

There are a number of items which almost surely will increase spending—many of them programs initiated by the Eisenhower administration itself. The President is now in the paradoxical position of opposing part of the program on which he and his party spent several years of work.

It is an important session for these and other reasons. Inflation, business recovery and the cold war combine to make it a crucial one. It will be a national calamity if it deteriorates into an Eisenhower-congressional feud.

Jurors Follow Through With Committee Idea

Members of the November-December Fulton County Grand Jury Friday returned highly constructive presentments in a number of fields. They are to be congratulated especially in following through with the idea that a community-wide committee be set up to work in the field of race relations.

Early in December the jury suggested that the Chamber of Commerce appoint such a committee. The chamber rejected the idea as not being a proper function or responsibility of that body. So the jury itself has voted "to constitute itself henceforth as a private organizational group of citizens to work toward this objective."

The jury, therefore, asks for suggestions from citizens themselves about makeup of such a group and how it can be formed.

"In the South, as is fitting," the jurors declared, "Atlanta must lead the way toward a solution of our racial problems. Let our citizens be a focal point for a pattern of leadership which will eventually resolve our racial problems throughout the Southern states.

"If agreement can be reached on the more minor irritations," they continued, "such as housing and transportation, then perhaps we can approach the subject of segregation and integration with a mutually understanding mind as to what is best for our society as a whole and resolve our problems without the ultimate necessity of pitting race against race."

The jury is right. It is imperative that communications be kept open between the races and that the irritating problems be solved in an atmosphere of understanding and good will. No one in either race wants Atlanta to become another Little Rock and for hatred to replace the good relationships which have existed.

U.S. Prestige Receives Another Serious Blow

Russia's space scientists have achieved a triumph which equals and in some respects surpasses their first satellite about the earth.

As the United States trailed in that field, it now is left behind in this newest experiment, a moon shot which is expected to go in orbit about the sun. The United States twice had made excellent trial shots, both of which fell far short of the mark.

The Russians have done it. They merit the sincere congratulations of all those who see the significance of this work. The United States, with its Atlas triumph, is not too far behind. But we are not even with them. There are many reasons. The paths of experimentation were not exactly the same. The objectives were not identical. The Russians, following their plan, emerged with much more powerful engines than we have developed.

We are not too far in the rear. We possess the power to destroy, or almost destroy, Russia. They assuredly have the weapons to do the same to us. But that they are ahead of us should teach us a lesson we always seem to forget. It is that while Russia's standard of living and the variety of her gadgets and creature comforts is meager in comparison, her scientists are first-rate and equal to those anywhere else.

Meanwhile, the House unit which is pushing for two more moon tries should sit back and be quiet. There is no need to push. The fact we have had to use a "crash" program to make up for past errors of judgment is one thing now wrong. Let our scientists work it out and try to shoot for the moon when they think they are ready.

We cannot now beat the Russians to the moon. There is no need to appear ridiculous in hasty trying. But we should step up our efforts with all possible speed to catch up.

Let's not lose sight of the fact that the Soviets now are planning space stations and manned observation points on the moon. Let's remember, too, that U.S. prestige has suffered another heavy blow.

Georgia's Mentally Ill Deserve Adequate Care

Primitive societies deserted the old, the crippled, the mentally ill, leaving them to spend life's evening in the howling desolation of loneliness, poverty and despair.

We are supposed to be more civilized today. But are we?

Our state, for instance, and we as individuals, have made it a social shame and disgrace to be "crazy," thus compounding the misery of those who already have had more than their share. This has made treatment and rehabilitation of the ill doubly difficult.

There are Georgians who have had their own parents confined in mental institutions solely to get rid of them. There are Georgians who have said, in effect, "Let the insane take care of the insane."

How can it be that our churches are filled to overflowing every Sunday while on those same Sabbaths our mental institutions likewise are crowded with pathetic patients in desperate need of medical and psychiatric attention? How can it be that some physicians will testify falsely about a person's sanity? How can it be that insurance companies exclude coverage of the mentally ill from their policies?

Can it be that this same "oversight" on the part of insurance companies has been a causative factor in the grossly inadequate treatment and psychiatric care our mentally ill receive?

Can it be that we have forgotten the mentally ill are like little children and that God has left them in the custody of society? Have we forgotten that we are our brother's keeper?

Will Fourth Man Be An Expert at Bridge?

A French psychiatrist opines that in this "push button" world some workers are likely to be so isolated they'll be asking loneliness pay.

Recent arrangements indicate that is not going to happen with the airlines.

Three has been a company rule in the four-engine planes. Under the new agreement, the crew is likely to make sure that, besides being pilot-qualified, the fourth man is good at bridge.

Smog, we learn from the recent Air Pollution Conference in Washington, is smoke plus fog. Smout is a new word describing smog plus radioactive fallout.

The big job is to alert the nation to the danger of this last combination. Maybe a slogan would help: Keep Smout Out of Your Snout. And that "mought" help with smog, too.

Dr. Nat G. Long Commended by Atlantan For His 'Unique' East District Meeting

Atlanta — It is a delight to commend Dr. Nat G. Long, district superintendent of the Atlanta East District, for a most unique meeting of his district that will be held at the Druid Hills Methodist Church, Jan. 15, 1959, from 3:30 p.m. to 9:30 p.m.

This will be a meeting of the annual district conference combined with a family life conference.

The affairs of the district conference will compose the first hour followed by the family life conference.

The keynote address of the family life conference will be given by Dr. G. Ray Jordan, professor of preaching, Emory University.

Work groups will include courses on "Courtship and Marriage," "Pre-Marital Counseling," "Building a Family Life Program in a Local Church," "Your Home Can Be Christian," "Helping Families Plan Their Devotional Life," "Parents and Youth in the Home," "Freeing the Family From Social Pressures," "How the Whole Family May Grow to Maturity."

The conference will be concluded with an address by Mrs. Arthur J. Moore, "What God Expects of the Home."

This type of district meeting is certainly the first of its kind to be held in the North Georgia Conference.

Ministers Urged To Stick to Subject

Bainbridge — Please allow me space to join Mrs. Claude E. Jones Sr. in congratulating Dr. James P. Wesberry on his statement which, in her words, "restored my respect and confidence in ministers who believe in being ministers and not politicians."

We are firmly convinced that much good would be accomplished and that the racial tension would be materially reduced if the ministers of both races would confine their activities to preaching the Gospel and bestowing upon their congregations religious training and spiritual leadership, instead of promoting highly controversial political issues.

This Man Perked White Lightning

A bunch of us were sitting around out at Mr. Claude Hendon's house one night during the holidays when somehow the talk turned to prohibition and the horrible stuff people used to drink in those days and the way they would try to doctor the raw white lightning by putting cherries in it, to absorb the fusel oil, and charcoal sticks and rock candy or anything else that would help to make it potable.

And Mr. Hendon got to reminiscing about the old days when he was on the road selling electrical appliances, and how bad whisky started him off on his career.

It was in the early thirties, as he remembers it, when prohibition was at its height and the whisky everywhere was bad, but the whisky in the South, which was his territory, was the worst in the world, he says. His company, he recalls, had just brought out a new kind of coffee maker, one of these double-barreled glass things where you put the water in the bottom and the coffee in the top and heat the water until it boils and the water surges up and steeps the coffee grounds and then seeps back into the bottom as good clear hot coffee.

They were fine coffee makers, all right, Mr. Hendon recalls, but depression had the country in its grip then and he could not sell them to save his soul.

He had come into Vidalia, Ga., he says, with his orderbook still blank after two weeks on the road and he was about as discouraged as any drummer ever was. Then a fellow he knew came along with a fruit jar full of white mule whisky and offered him a drink.

Then like a flash of lightning an idea struck him. "Wait a minute," he told the man. He went down the street to the drugstore and bought himself a box of powdered charcoal. He came back to the hotel and opened up his sample case and took out a coffee maker. He filled the bottom part with white lightning and put the charcoal in the top. Then he plugged in the coffee maker and watched while the whisky boiled. It surged up through the charcoal and back again and when he poured some over a chunk of ice in a glass, it was a beautiful clear amber color, he says, and tasted as smooth as if it had been mellowed in a charred keg for years.

Mr. Hendon hit the road the next morning with a gleam of confidence in his eye and his sample case full of charcoal. In the next three months he sold 11,000 coffee makers and all over the South people started perking their stump-juice whisky and speaking of him as a benefactor of mankind.

Repeal came along soon afterward to destroy this booming market, but Mr. Hendon was not dismayed. He had his self-assurance back now and he went on to become one of the fabulous salesmen of our times — the Alexander Botts, so to speak, of the electrical appliance business.

Seeing Double? No, It's Stereo!

Testing! One, two, one, two! Come now all you fidelity fans, hi-fi, low-fi and in-fi. Lend me your woofers and your tweeters, your audio frequency, your radio frequency, and once-every-morning-with-breakfast perusal of stereo typed words and phrases, some old and some new. What you are about to witness is a printing first, nothing like it since Gutenberg invented movable, but not squeezable, type.

Let it not be said typography follows electronics, at least not too far.

You are now reading the world's first newspaper column set in stereophonic type.

Your full cooperation is necessary if you would enjoy the full round letters, the faithful reproduction possible through this heretofore untouched device in the graphic arts.

Reading stereophonic type requires two eyes. Each should be open. Focus the left eye on the left half of this and the right eye on the right. Read from left to right, simultaneously on the left and on the right. The effect should be to the vision as stereo is to sound.

If you do not achieve satisfactory results with the eye alone, try cutting out this column, tearing it down the middle and pasting it on grandma's parlor stereoscope.

That should give you the picture.

Remember, folks, never before has it been done in stereophonic type.

The chances are it never will be again.

GOP Liberals Have Very Little Power

WASHINGTON—The late President Calvin Coolidge once told a friend that when he got into political difficulty his policy was simply to stay put and stay silent—silent, that is, as in "Silent Cal." This is the present technique of the somewhat cynical, but also very tough and able, chief of the Republican Old Guard in the Senate, Sen. Styles Bridges.

No doubt he could have got along very well otherwise, but it does no harm to carry a little insurance.

While the liberal-modern and Old Guard Republicans generally have been breathing polite but genuine maledictions upon each other here, Bridges has been maintaining a grand and icy detachment in the chill fastnesses of his home state of New Hampshire.

Everybody knows he has been heart and center of the Old Guard's rugged defense against the effort of the liberal-moderns to have a significant voice in the party leadership in the new Senate. But nobody can really prove it by anything Bridges has been saying — or been seen in the act of doing.

The truth is this: If the liberal-moderns had really intended to shake up the Old Guard leadership where it would count they would have had first of all to dispose of Bridges. The fact that they have not tried to dispossess him as chairman of the Senate Republican Policy Committee does not indicate, however, that their campaign has been spurious.

It only indicates they are sensible men. An old saying fits the case: If you strike at a king you must kill (and not merely wing) him. And to this could be added another: You cannot very well strike at a king, in any case, unless he presents some kind of target to you.

Thus it increasingly looks like the liberal-moderns will confine themselves in the GOP caucus on Jan. 7 to:

1. A highly doubtful attempt to put Sen. John Sherman Cooper of Kentucky in as floor leader over the Old Guard choice, Sen. Everett Dirksen of Illinois.

2. A probably successful effort (since this one will have Bridges' concurrence) to elect as assistant leader a moderate liberal, Sen. Thomas H. Kuchel of California.

Indeed, the net outlook is that Bridges in the new Congress will have a practical and personal power in the Senate not matched by any GOP member since the high days of the late Sen. Robert A. Taft of Ohio in the late '40s and early '50s.

Old Guardism, as typified in the public mind by Taft, helped elect President Harry S. Truman in 1948. Did the Old Guardists then rebuke Taft? Certainly not; they elevated him. Old Guardism as typified by Bridges and others contributed to the GOP congressional election disaster in November. What now? Why, up, up the Old Guard, of course! Theirs not to reason why, theirs but to do or die.

Are These Deaths 'The Will of God?'

At the beginning of the new year, I believe there is nothing about which people are more confused than "the will of God." To illustrate the confusion: A man's wife died and he said, "Well, I must just accept it. It is the will of God." But that man was himself a doctor and for weeks he had fought for her life. Was he all that time fighting against the will of God?

If she had recovered would he not have called her recovery the will of God? Yet surely we cannot have it both ways.

A boy was killed in a raid on Berlin. His mother says she is trying to bow to the will of God. But was it God's will? Or was it the will of Hitler?

A little boy in India died in the cholera epidemic. His father said, "It is the will of God." Close by his little girl was sleeping. Dr. Leslie Weatherhead said to the man: "Suppose someone crept up the steps onto the veranda tonight and deliberately put a wad of cotton soaked in cholera germ culture over your little girl's mouth, what would you think of that?"

"My God," he said, "what would I think about that? Nobody would do such a thing."

"But John," his friend said quietly, "isn't that just what you have accused God of doing when you said it was His will? Call your little boy's death the result of mass ignorance, call it mass folly, call it mass sin, if you like, but don't call it the will of God."

Those who want a text for this will find it in Matthew 18:14: "It is not the will of your Father which is in heaven, that one of these little ones should perish."

The will of God really should be divided into three parts: (1) the intentional will of God, (2) the circumstantial will of God, (3) the ultimate will of God. Dr. Weatherhead has written a book entitled, "The Will of God."

It is a little book which sells for only a dollar. I am taking my discussion today and the next several days from that little book.

Was it God's intention that Christ should go to the cross? I think not. Rather it was the intentional will of God that men should follow Christ, not kill Him. But when circumstances wrought by man's evil set up the situation that Christ was compelled either to die or to run away, then in those circumstances the Cross was the circumstantial will of God.

However, there is a third sense in which we use the phrase "the will of God," when we mean God's purpose. It is His purpose to win the world to Himself, that is His ultimate will. God will not finally be defeated. Not everything that happens is His will, but nothing can happen which will finally defeat Him.

Rockefeller Begins His Fateful Term

WASHINGTON—Nelson A. Rockefeller's inaugural address could as well have been delivered from the steps of the Capitol here as from the steps of the Capitol in Albany. That was the breadth of Rockefeller's view as he assumed the governorship of New York state after an election victory which marked him the vote-gettingest Republican in the midst of a Democratic landslide.

And that, it seems fair to say, is the breadth of Gov. Rockefeller's political landscape.

I would not say Rockefeller had one eye on Jan. 1, 1959, and the other eye on August, 1960, when the Republican National Convention will pick the next Republican presidential nominee.

There is no doubt in my mind that his overriding immediate objective is to prove himself the best possible governor of the most populous and powerful state in the Union, which has furnished six presidential nominees in the past seven national elections.

But it is, I think, accurate to note:

That Rockefeller did not hesitate to devote about 70 per cent of his inaugural speech to defining the largest issues of the cold war and what the citizens and government of the state of New York must do in coping with "the tragic ordeal of freedom" both at home and abroad.

That he must have been fully aware many would interpret his address as expressing his deep and manifest interest in national and world affairs even while he is serving in Albany—as did Gov. Alfred Smith and Gov. Franklin Roosevelt and Gov. Thomas Dewey before him. No doubt he is in no way pained by this interpretation.

Rockefeller began his inaugural by referring to the present "fatal testing time for free men" and significantly concluded it by dedicating himself "to the goal of freedom of opportunity for men everywhere in a world of peace."

It was, then, the most natural thing in the world for him to proclaim that "our neighborhood is the world."

And in such a setting it seemed entirely appropriate for him to give this explanation of how and why this world is divided and imperiled:

"It is divided essentially between those who believe in the brotherhood of man under the fatherhood of God — and those who scorn this as a pious myth.

"It is divided between those who believe in the dignity of free men—and those who believe in the monstrous supremacy of the totalitarian state."

This was Nelson Rockefeller speaking his views in his own way in his own right from a rostrum which he had earned by his own efforts.

Rockefeller has proved himself a good candidate. He has still to prove himself a good governor. After that, on the Republican side, it will be between Nixon and Nelson—and both will agree, I think, that that is healthy for the party.

State Traffic Toll Is 9 Lives

Nine persons, six of them pedestrians, lost their lives in Georgia traffic during the long New Year's holiday weekend.

William Douglas Nichols, 16, of Winder, was killed Sunday night in a head-on collision on Georgia 53 about four miles north of Winder, in Barrow County, , Sheriff Delmar Smith reported. He said five other teenagers were injured.

Artis Sherman, 23, of Covington, a Negro sailor home on leave, died Sunday of injuries received New Year's Eve when he was hit by a car while walking in the city limits of Covington.

The injured in the Barrow County crash were identified as Nelson Haines, 18, and H. W. Grizzle, 16, both of Winder; William Self, 19, Johnny Martin, 18, and Miss Robie Ann Watkins, 15, all of Hoschton.

Miss Watkins was sped to Georgia Baptist Hospital in Atlanta for emergency treatment. The others were taken to the Winder hospital.

The State Patrol made an emergency Atlanta-to-Winder run to carry blood from Grady Hospital.

The wreck occurred, the patrol reported, as a northbound car attempted to pass another car and was struck headon by a car coming south. The wreck was 3.7 miles south of Hoschton on State Highway 53.

Seven other persons, five of them pedestrians, were killed in Georgia traffic accidents during the gia traffic during the long New Year's holiday weekend.

The State Patrol said Daniel R. Goings, 23, of the Marine Depot Supply Center at Albany, died early Sunday in a car-train collision in the city limits of Albany. The patrol said he was thrown from the car under the train.

Thirteen-year-old John Roy McKinnon of Rte. 1, Pearson, was injured fatally Saturday night when he stepped in front of oncoming traffic on U.S. 441 just north of the city limits of Pearson.

Another pedestrian killed Saturday was Simon Alexander, 48, of Shady Dale. He was hit when he walked into the path of an oncoming vehicle on Georgia 142 in the city limits of Shady Dale, the patrol said.

Three other pedestrians died in separate accidents Friday.

Police Here Search for 2 Escapees

Atlanta police posted a lookout Sunday for two convicts at large who escaped from the Buford Rock Quarry Prison Saturday.

The convicts fled in a prison truck and were believed to be hiding in Atlanta. They were identified as Willie Norman Edwards, 37, and Lonas Ray Caughorn, 32, both serving terms for armed robbery.

The State Patrol described the escapees as dangerous. They fled the prison in a truck equipped with an emergency red light on top and a State Patrol radio receiver in the cab.

Warden Hubert Smith said the prisoners were working in the prison yard where the truck was parked, climbed into the vehicle and drove out of the gate before a guard could stop them.

Swim Suit Trek Here Wins Bet

By WARREN BOSWORTH

Uncle Newt could have hit the jackpot in icy Atlanta Sunday night by peddling union suits to the Ivy League crowd.

It was that doggone rough weatherwise as the first cold wave of the young year stabbed into north Georgia.

And who said it takes heat to make folks do all sorts of odd things?

A. C. Byrd of 1107 Ponce de Leon Ave. took a late evening stroll up Pence de Leon wearing a pair of swimming trunks and a T-shirt.

Oh yes, he was barefooted.

A companion said Byrd made the stroll in the 22-degree weather to win a 50-cent bet.

"You should have seen him," Byrd's friend said. "He was walking along like it was the Fourth of July or something."

U. S. Weather Bureau personnel had a busy day as they gave Monday's frigid forecast to hundreds of Atlanta phone callers.

Horticulturist Charles Hudson advised Atlantans to wrap or cover their young plants or set up windbreakers around them for the next few days.

Service stations throughout the city reported they were doing "heavy" Sunday night business as motorists sought to have their cars checked.

Plumbers were quite busy Sunday night, too.

The marquee of a downtown theater showing "South Pacific" looked out of place as the bone-chilling wind whistled down almost deserted Peachtree street.

Throughout the metropolitan area, parents double-checked their youngsters' clothing for Monday's trek back to the classrooms.

More than one Atlantan was whistling "Baby, It's Cold Outside" Sunday night, but no one was putting more music to it than ice plant engineer James L. Rogers.

Normally, he has a pretty cold job. But it was 27 degrees inside his plant Sunday night. Outside the mercury was dropping past the 20 mark.

Panties Snatched From Clothes Line

An Atlanta woman Sunday night reported a panty raid.

She said seven pairs of panties were taken from her clothes line Sunday. Over a period of five weeks she has lost 23 pairs of panties. Other clothes have been on the line with the undergarments—but they've been left alone.

Greensboro Pupils Mourn Leader

Greensboro High School students will go back to school Monday bereaved of their principal.

For Roy Burke, principal at the school, is still missing. His body is believed to be in the murky waters of Fishing Creek, a branch of Clark Hill Reservoir. Burke disappeared Dec. 26 while on a hunting trip with his nephew, George Evans, of Atlanta.

"We are going to open the school and pray for the best," Assistant Principal Ellis D. Foster said. "Ford Boston, Green County school superintendent, has asked us to open and carry on with as little emotion and confusion as possible."

The educator said the school would continue to operate under this situation until further notice.

"Everyone at the school feels deeply about this," Foster said. "Mr. Burke is universally respected and liked. I myself have worked with him for 10 years. He's one of the best friends I've got."

Meanwhile, a team of six Navy skin divers searched the waters of Fishing Creek near Lincolnton on a cold, windswept Sunday in a fruitless effort to find Burke's body. The search was called off early because of rough water.

from the site, officials said.

Cost of the hospital will be financed in part by a fund-raising effort to obtain $1,250,000 in pledges and contributions from businesses and individuals in the Atlanta area.

In addition, the hospital will be eligible for a federal grant under the Hill-Burton Acts, the planners said.

The Georgia Department of Public Health, Division of Hospital Services, in a survey released in January, 1957, has verified the need for the proposed hospital.

They stress the need for construction of hospitals that will be community type and general in scope, offering their services to all residents of the community, regardless of race, color, religion or economic status.

An example of such hospital operation in Georgia is Kennestone Hospital in Marietta, it was pointed out.

Initial steps call for construction of a 150-bed basic facility. A portion of the beds will be allocated to chronic patients.

Included in original plans are the general nursing, surgery and maternity areas, facilities for pediatric and orthopedic patients, and an outpatient clinic for patients not requiring hospitalization.

Eventual expansion will provide nurses' training, including a graduate nursing school, internships for graduate and postgraduate education, internships for pharmacists, training for X-ray and laboratory technicians, and hospital administrators.

Members of the executive committee include Hughes Spalding, Joseph Seitz, Furman Smith, Sam McKenzie, Alex W. Smith Jr., Robert Lynch, Fred Storey and Rease Inge.

Headquarters for the fund-raising campaign have been established in the Chamber of Commerce Building, 33 Pryor St., NE.

Organizational phases are now getting under way and teams of volunteer workers in the various divisions are expected to begin active solicitations of pledges and gifts in the near future.

Data Still Sent Back By Rocket

observation stations in the Soviet Union.

But these radio contacts gradually will worsen because of the growing distance and the exhaustion of the cosmic missile's batteries, Tass said, and "in the course of the next few days will cease entirely."

Citizens, in their first enthusiasm over a Soviet rocket being fired in the direction of the moon, had dubbed it "Lunik"—a combination of Sputnik and Luna for moon. They continued to be intensely interested.

Sunday crowds gathered at Moscow's planetarium and elsewhere to hear lectures on space exploration and to ask questions.

Sunday newspapers were filled with comments on the performance, its effect in building Soviet prestige and on predictions of new space ventures.

The predictions contained nothing specific as to what will come next in the Soviet scientific program.

Whether or not the Soviet scientists actually aimed at the moon and missed, the whole nation was applauding an unparalleled success.

Alexander Topchiev, vice president of the Academy of Sciences, said the rocket never will fall back to earth.

Rocket expert Vladimir Dobronravov gibed that American scientists had been unable to overcome the earth's gravity because not only their rocket engines but also their control systems were inferior.

The Sunday noon announcement gave these additional details on the rocket's performance.

"The measurements of the radial speed of the rocket during its passage near the moon, at 5:57 a. m. Moscow time on Jan. 4 showed that the local maximum speed was equal to 2.45 kilometers (1.5224 miles) per second which corresponds to the figures of other trajectory observations carried out during the period of the closest proximity of the Rocket to the moon.

"Thus, in less than one and a half days and nights (34 hours) the cosmic rocket covered the distance of 375,000 kilometers from the earth to the moon."

all the Ivy League colleges," he said.

Milton said plastics are opening up an entire new field in home building and improvement sales. The outdoor living of modern Americans, both patio and lake-recreation fields, were pointed to by Milton as regions for increased sales.

Ross said those things which were looked upon as luxuries a few years ago were now counted on as necessities. He said that taste has bigger place in selling now than ever before. "Housewives are content, and likely so, that the appliances that they buy will work. Now they want them to fit in with the decor of their homes," the Peachtree merchant said.

Asher, speaking of modern home appliances, said that colleges for women, in addition to teaching home economics, should offer training in mechanical engineering.

"They need it to run all of the appliances now being offered for sale," he said.

All agreed that 1959 would see a five to 10 per cent increase in sales over 1958. They were questioned by George Boswell, associate editor of The Constitution. Ralph McGill, editor, was moderator.

Chilly Reception Given Mikoyan at N.Y. Airport

formed and plainclothes police, Mikoyan and his friends were walked to the airport's press interview room where he said through an interpreter that:

1. He had been here in 1936 on a two-month visit and he had liked the country. Now he wanted to see the changes and see old acquaintances and make new ones.

2. Concerning talks on the Berlin question "I have no plans on any particular questions. I am on a holiday and a rest, but if any questions come up I will be glad to discuss them."

RESPECTED MAN

3. President Eisenhower is a respected man in the Soviet Union and that he would like to see him if the President "has the time." Later in Washington Mikoyan said that he would see Secretary of State Dulles Monday.

4. He had been "up in the air and out of touch for the last two days" and did not even know where the Soviet space missile was, but "there is no doubt that it is an impressive achievement of Soviet science and a contribution of Soviet science to the peace of the world."

5. He brought a message from the Soviet people wishing the people of the United States "peace in the new year and forever."

FEW HUNGARIANS

There were a few Hungarians at the airport, but the hour was early and they did not seem to number more than a dozen. Some of them entered the airport terminal and shouted — in English — such greetings as "you murdering dog" and "kill the Soviet traitor" to the Soviet statesman who pretended not to hear. The demonstrators were quickly pushed outdoors by the police. There the Hungarians waved signs reading —in English—"you can't fool us Mikoyan, we know your kind," and "how much blood do you want," and "go home Mikoyan, we don't want you here."

They also chanted in Russian. A Soviet newspaperman declined to translate, but he admitted that what they were saying was unpleasant.

A five-car motorcade — four Soviet embassy automobiles and one carrying newspapermen — then rolled towards Manhattan, straight across town and to the Lincoln tunnel.

While the first contacts Mikoyan had with Americans on this trip may have been less than pleasant, the situation thawed out during the motor trip to Washington — which took five and a half hours with two stops.

The first was at the Yardville, N.J., Howard Johnson's restaurant where the little convoy stopped for breakfast at about 7 a.m. Mikoyan, the four aides who had accompanied him — including his 29-year-old son Sergo who writes for a monthly economics magazine — the Russians from Washington, many policeman and a few newspapermen all sat at the counter. All the Russians had "coffee, toast and marmalade."

Mikoyan ate only half his toast, but he also had a glass of tomato juice. He appeared to be impressed by the formica counter, which he kept rapping with his knuckles, and with the brightly printed paper doilies and napkins which he carefully inspected.

SCANTY MEAL

After spending about 20 minutes over his scanty meal Mikoyan asked to be shown around the restaurant. First he walked over to a gadget which had caught his attention — one of those glass globes in which orange juice is constantly stirred by a pair of blades. The deputy premier was told what it was, shrugged his shoulders, and went on to inspect a display of popcorn, potato chips and doughnuts in plastic bags.

Conrad Hunnicutt, the 21-year-old assistant manager who was in charge, then showed the Russians through the gleamingly clean kitchens.

Mikoyan wanted to know why gas was used in the kitchen rather than electricity and was told by Hunnicutt that the electricity sometimes failed. Mikoyan arched his eyebrows.

NEARBY TOWNS

He also wanted to know where the restaurant employes lived, and the assistant manager told him in nearby towns and that they drove to work. There was no visible reaction.

On his way out the deputy premier stopped to look at a display of Sunday newspapers. Menshikov picked out a New York Times and a Philadelphia Enquirer. Hunnicutt told Menshikov to be sure to drop 45 cents in the box.

The next stop, also unscheduled, was at the Oakcrest motel, a modest establishment in Perryville, Md. The arrival of the five large black limousines and two police cars caused a stir, but after overcoming his initial surprise Sharpe Karper, the proprietor, agreed to show Mikoyan some of his rooms.

Mikoyan asked Karper if he made a profit.

"Hell, yes," was the reply, "that's what we are in business for."

The Deputy Premier then wanted to know if guests had to clean their rooms. Mikoyan was told that they did not.

The cars then left for Washington where they arrived at the Soviet Embassy on 16th street at 11:20. There Mikoyan, who looked somewhat drawn, made a statement much like the one at Idlewild and added that he would see Secretary Dulles Monday. There might be a later announcement concerning the schedule for his visit, it was said, but Mikoyan was tired and he would rest for the remainder of the day.

But the Deputy Premier did not rest long. Soon, clad in a heavy black overcoat and a gray hat, he was taking a walking tour of the capital's downtown area.

During this jaunt he inspected the Washington Monument, looked in at an art gallery, discovered the city's parking meters and how they work.

CULTURAL ATTACHE

Although the day was mild when Mikoyan reached Washington, the temperature was falling when he strode out of the embassy and down 16th street toward the White House. With him were his son and Vladimir Budine, the embassy's cultural attache.

The group was later joined by Ambassador Menshikov, who said the Deputy Premier wished for "a little exercise, a little fresh air."

As he went south on 16th street, Mikoyan looked over the AFL-CIO Building and then historic St. John's Protestant Episcopal Church.

This brought him to LaFayette Square across Pennsylvania avenue from the White House. There he observed the statues to General LaFayette and General Kosciusko, the Frenchman and Pole who fought with the American revolutionists.

Mikoyan was not pleased when three reporters and two photographers joined the walking group. But they stayed with him in spite of his complaints, which he did not repeat.

From there, Mikoyan walked nearly unnoticed through the downtown shopping section and gazed into a bookstore window featuring "Dr. Zhicago," the novel by Soviet citizen Boris Pasternak which has been criticized in the Soviet press and for which the author, under pressure, declined a Nobel Prize.

The walk then took the party south of the White House and to the base of the Washington Monument, now closed for repairs. From there the capitol, the Lincoln Memorial and Jefferson Memorial were pointed out to him.

Ft. Pulaski To Be Ready For '61 War Centennial

nificant than the part it has played in military history.

The Pulaski brick masonry is a fine example of the art, but the fort was obsolete almost by the time it was completed.

The State of Georgia seized Ft. Pulaski Jan. 3, 1861, four months before the firing on Sumter. On April 1, 1861, the Georgia flag came down and the Confederate flag replaced it.

A year later, April 10, 1862, a federal force with rifled guns bore down on the chief defense at Savannah, the firing started at 8:10 a.m. The next day at 2 p.m. Pulaski pulled down the Stars and Bars and ran up The Star Spangled Banner.

The age of brick forts and smoothbore cannon had passed.

Toward the end of the war, Ft. Pulaski was a military prison, then a political prison, then a war crimes prison.

Considering the ignominous role of Ft. Pulaski in the Civil War, Ralston Lattimore, custodian at the fort, opines the major observance of "Savannah in The War" should be at Ft. McAllister, now Georgia-owned.

"The little fort on the Ogeechee would not surrender," says Lattimore. "Here the Confederate flag should always fly."

That does not mean Custodian Lattimore and the National Park Service do not have plans for Pulaski.

The fort deserves its status as a national monument because it exemplifies an era in harbor defense and a way of Army life now gone.

The area was transferred from the War Department to the Park Service in 1933. Restoration and development activities started by the NPS were interrupted by World War II.

During the war the fort became rundown—walks overgrown, ditches and canals filled in.

The postwar staff has done its best with limited funds and facilities to clean up the place and keep it presentable to some 80,000 annual visitors.

Ft. Pulaski has suffered, as has many another fort, from "not enough"--not enough protection, not enough maintenance, and in this case, not enough interpretive facilities.

Mission 66 promises to make up for the deficiencies with:

1. Better access and control. Repairs to roads and trails, a redesigned parking area, an entrance barrier and booth.

2. Repairs and rehabilitation. Walls repainted, parade ground graded and lawn areas improved. Heating and limited air conditioning in the gorge casements, both for preservation and visitor comfort. More of the fort accessible to visitation.

3. Improved interpretation. An attempt on the inside to recapture the atmosphere and feeling of a mid-19th century fortification. Use of period furniture and equipment. Additional cannon. Exhibits showing various phases of garrison living. Generous use of explanatory recordings.

The custodian would like to see the museum, lecture hall and concession features excluded from the fort itself so the monument may be presented as nearly as it was when its then formidable smoothbore cannon commanded the approach to the Port of Savannah.

4. Better housing for employes and a more adequate staff for maintenance and interpretation.

Custodian Lattimore says most of the development will be completed by 1961 in time for the 100th anniversary events.

He says 1966 should find Ft. Pulaski so equipped and staffed as to enable the visitor "to gain the maximum inspiration from the treasures of the national monument and to make his visit a memorable experience."

High-Level Talks On Berlin Urged

2 Senators Want Ministers Of 4 Powers To Discuss Crisis

WASHINGTON (AP)—Senators Mansfield (D-Mont) and Hickenlooper (R-Iowa) called Sunday for a four-power discussion of the Berlin crisis at the foreign minister level.

The two senators, serving as members of the American delegation to the United Nations, agreed in separate interviews that positive action is needed to meet the Russian threat to end the four-power control of Berlin and make it a "free city" which the Communists could gobble up.

Mansfield, the assistant Democratic leader, urged that the West counter the Soviet move with a proposal for U. N.-supervised elections for all of Berlin.

SUGGESTS FREE ELECTION

"I think we should suggest that the Germans of all of Berlin be allowed to decide in a free election whether they want to go East or West," he said. "Perhaps from discussion of this proposal we could find some formula that would work on a larger scale for the reuniting of the two Germanys."

Mansfield said he believes it may be dangerous to assume that merely by standing firm and doing nothing else the West will win a victory in the Berlin crisis.

"We can't just assume that all is going to be well if we just stand firm," he said. "We should have some new ideas and alternatives. The President will have to assume the leadership in producing them and I can assure him that if he does he will find among the Democrats a spirit of cooperation and of willingness to be of assistance."

URGES MORE TRADE

Mansfield said he thinks the situation should be taken up at a foreign ministers' conference, as rapidly as such a meeting can be arranged.

Hickenlooper agreed with this but said that such a conference ought to be preceded by some meetings at lower levels to map out the field of discussion.

Mansfield said on a recorded ABC-TV program—"Celebrity Parade"—that there ought to be more commercial and trade contacts betwen East and West Germany.

"I think further moves could be made through their church groups, their trade groups, their educational groups because, due to the rigidity of the position of the big powers, the answers may all have to come from the East and West Germans themselves," he said.

Road Toll May Fall Under 390

By United Press International

Safety experts "took heart" Sunday night that a new traffic death record for the New Year's holiday would not be set as thousands and thousands of travelers switched from the highway to other means of transportation.

Air, rail and bus centers of the nation were clogged with returning vacationers and college-bound students. Travel officials called the post-holiday exodus the biggest jam since World War II.

HOPE RISES

The National Safety Council felt the transportation switch-over was a "real ray of hope" that its pre-holiday estimate of 390 traffic deaths might not even be exceeded.

A count late Sunday night showed that at least 335 persons had died on the nation's highways since the holiday period began at 6 p.m. (local time) New Year's Eve. In addition, there were 51 deaths in fires, 16 in plane crashes and 91 from miscellaneous causes for an overall holiday death toll of 493.

TOTAL 934

The New Year's fatalities, combined with the 599 traffic deaths reported during the Christmas period, gave the nation a 934 traffic death count for the two holidays.

California posted 35 auto deaths to pace the highway carnage. North Carolina reported 21, New York and Pennsylvania 19 each, Illinois and Ohio 15 each, Michigan and Texas 14 apiece, Wisconsin 12, Minnesota and Indiana 11 each.

PLANS CHANGED

Travel officials and the safety council believed the extreme cold, plus snow and ice-covered highways, caused many motorists to reconsider travel plans and abandon the road for other public carriers.

Because of the slack in the rate of traffic deaths, the council which had revised its earlier estimate, reverted to its original forecast. When it had revised its estimate to 400 or more deaths, the council had feared the toll might become the second worst on record for a New Year's holiday, topping the count of 412 in 1956.

END OF THE CHASE—A police chase in Atlanta early Sunday ended when the fleeing car slammed into a utility pole on Hollywood road at Spring street, NW. Grady ambulance attendants and officers are shown removing the driver and teen-age companion, both Negroes. Seriously injured were the driver, Luke Roberts, 20, of 1071 Hunter St., NW, and Jo Ann Howard, 15, of 530 Nutting St., NE. Patrolman T. J. Crutchfield booked three traffic offenses against the driver: drunk driving, speeding 95 miles an hour in a 35 zone, and driving on wrong side of street.

U.S., Britain Confer On Strategy at Geneva

GENEVA (UPI)—United States and British diplomats converged on Geneva Sunday for a final round of strategy talks before resuming nuclear test ban negotiations with Russia Monday.

A new Soviet warning that Moscow still considered the Western stand "unacceptable" threw a grim shadow over the future of the meetings.

American negotiators, led by U. S. Ambassador James J Wadsworth, held informal talks Sunday and were planning to meet with their British counterparts Monday morning.

Minister of State David Ormsby Gore, head of the British delegation and Russia's top negotiator, Semyon K. Tsarapikin, were en route to Geneva.

The conference which opened last Oct. 30, recessed Dec. 19 for the Christmas holidays with an unsolved East-West split over the extent of a control system to police a nuclear test ban. The talks were to resume formally Monday afternoon, in Geneva's sprawling Palais des Nations.

Russia has been demanding an immediate and unqualified end of atomic tests for all time and has charged that Britain and the United States were trying to dodge such a commitment by quibbling about controls for such a ban.

Dr. Tinkler, Churchman, Dies in S.C.

Special to The Constitution

GREENWOOD, S.C.—Dr. Samuel Alexander Tinkler, pastor of the local Associate Reform Presbyterian Church, died at a Greenwood hospital Sunday morning. He was 67.

Dr. Tinkler was pastor of the Associate Reform Presbyterian Church in Atlanta from 1933 to 1946. Other pastorates included Lake Wales, Fla., 1920-1933; York, S.C., 1946-47, and the Greenwood pastorate since 1947.

Dr. Tinkler was graduated from Erskine College in 1912. After serving overseas in World War I, he was graduated from Erskine College Theological Seminary in 1920. Erskine College awarded him the Doctor of Divinity degree in 1938.

He was a native of Atoka, Tennessee.

Funeral services will be at 10:30 a.m. Tuesday in Blyth Funeral Home Chapel. Burial will be in Louisville, Ga.

Surviving are his wife, Mrs. Mary Phillips Tinkler, formerly of Louisville; mother, Mrs. David R. Tinkler, 98, Atoka; sons, Sam A. Tinkler, Fort Lauderdale, Fla., and Dr. William P. Tinkler, Wichita Falls, Tex.; daughter, Mrs. John R. Devlin, Atlanta; six brothers, Dr. Bruce R. Tinkler, Lake Wales, Fla.; Robert S. Tinkler, Orlando, Fla.; W. S., Neil D., Paul A. and David R. Tinkler, all of Atoka, and 10 grandchildren.

Choke Off a Filibuster with 59 Votes, Republicans' Sen. Cooper Proposes

WASHINGTON (AP)—Sen. Cooper (R-Ky) suggested Sunday the Senate make it possible to cut off debate by a three-fifths majority vote.

His figure popped up as a possible compromise in the impending Senate battle over changing the filibuster rule. Southern senators generally are fighting to keep the present rule requiring a two-thirds majority of all senators to limit floor debate.

Cooper's suggestion calls for a less drastic change than one put forth by some of the group of self-styled liberal - conservatives who have nominated him for Senate GOP leader in opposition to Sen. Dirksen (R-Ill).

Two of the GOP insurgents, Sen. Case (NJ) and Sen Javits (NY), have teamed up with Sen. Douglas (D-Ill) and Sen. Humphrey (D-Minn) on a proposal to allow debate to be cut off by a simple majority vote of the 98 senators after 15 days or by 59 senators.

Cooper in a CBS radio-TV interview, "Face the Nation," said he could not go along with the majority vote figure. Nor, he said, would he want to go along with a proposal that two-thirds of the senators present—instead of all the Senate membership—be permitted to halt debate.

The two-thirds present vote proposal put forth by Senate Democratic Leader Johnson (Tex) "would leave us where we are today," Cooper said.

He added that "something like three-fights" would be more reasonable.

Later Cooper explained to a reporter it didn't matter whether it was three-fifths of the total membership or three-fifths of those present "because you'll have almost everybody there on important issues."

Cooper said free debate must be permitted but there must be some practical means of getting a vote.

In separate filmed TV interviews, Sen. Mansfield (D-Mont) urged that the Senate make it easier to halt filibusters and Sen. Stennis (D-Miss) said the nation wants the rule kept substantially as it is.

Mansfield, the assistant majority leader in the heavily Democratic Senate, expressed hope in his interview on a local program that the Senate will "at least advance as far" as to permit filibusters to be choked off by two-thirds of the senators present.

Stennis, in his interview in New Orleans, said the Senate would be largely destroyed as a free forum and a defender of states rights if debate could be cut off by majority vote. He conceded there might be some modification of the present rule.

Rev. John Summer, 85, Hospital Founder, Dies

The Rev. John E. Summer, 85, died Sunday just as his dream of a 150-bed, $2,500,000 South Fulton Hospital was about to be realized.

The Rev. Mr. Summer, a native of Senoia, was ordained in 1905 and served in the South Georgia Methodist Conference until his retirement in 1945. He served about two years in the conference after his retirement and moved to Hapeville in 1948.

Rev. J. E. Summer

In 1949 he became interested in the possibility of a hospital authority to serve the South Fulton-Clayton-Fayette County area, and by 1951 had stirred enough interest to bring about the creation of an authority.

From its origin until 1957, when he resigned due to ill health, Mr. Sumner served as executive secretary of the authority. Clergymen in the hospital building fund campaign are raising funds to build a chapel to be designated "The John E. Summer Memorial Chapel."

During his ministry the Rev. Summer served from 1924 until 1929 as superintendent of the Masonic Orphan's Home in Macon.

Funeral services for Mr. Summer will be held at 1:30 p.m. Tuesday in the Hapeville Methodist Church, where he was a member. The Rev. B. W. Hancock, the Rev. James D. Reese and the Rev. George E. Clary Sr. will officiate. Burial will be in Senoja City Cemetery.

His home was at 3365 Myrtle St., Hapeville.

The family requests that in lieu of flowers contributions be made to the South Fulton Hospital building fund.

Surviving are his wife, the former Lotta Barrow; a son, D. B. Summer of East Point, superintendent of the Piedmont Cotton Mills in Hapeville, and a daughter, Mrs. F. L. Minnix of Hapeville.

Rob Suspect Nabbed

Police squeezed through a broken-out window Sunday and grabbed a burglary suspect in a southwest Atlanta garment company.

Patrolmen J. A. Phoebus and D. C. Nasworthy arrested Claude Jones Turpin, 40, of a Luckie street, NW, address, on suspicion of burglary.

Frank H. Morrison II, Atlanta Attorney, Dies

Frank H. Morrison II, 46-year-old Atlanta attorney and one of Gen. Douglas MacArthur's chief prosecutors of Japanese war criminals, died Saturday night in an Atlanta hospital.

He had been ill less than a week.

Frank Morrison

Mr. Morrison was one of the first members of Gen. MacArthur's staff to conduct investigations of Japanese atrocities at Cabanatuan Prison and during the Bataan Death March.

After months of investigative work, he served on the United States' prosecuting staff which sent Generals Yamashita and Homma to the gallows.

"TIGER" COMMANDED

Gen. Yamashita, the "Tiger of Malaya," was Japanese commander of the Philippines. Gen. Homma was the officer who ordered the infamous Death March.

In all, Mr. Morrison, then a captain in the U.S. Army, assisted in the prosecution of more than 300 Japanese war criminals.

Mr. Morrison, son of Mrs. Frank H. Morrison Sr. and the late Mr. Morrison, lived in Atlanta all of his life, except for the period spent in the Pacific.

He resided at 3080 Dale Dr., Northeast.

At the time of his death, Mr. Morrison headed his own law firm. He was married to the former June Hitch.

He was a graduate of Boys' High School and later obtained his law degree from Emory University. While at Emory he served as president of the law school and was a member of Sigma Alpha Epsilon social fraternity.

RAN FOR LEGISLATURE

He was a member of the American Legion and other organizations in Atlanta.

He ran for the Legislature in 1948 and was defeated by Luther Alverson for the Fulton County seat.

Mr. Morrison was active in affairs at St. Mark's Methodist Church for a number of years before changing his membership to the Peachtree Road Methodist Church.

Funeral services will be at 1 p.m. Monday at Spring Hill. The Rev. Dr. Lester Rumble will officiate. Private burial services will be at Westview Cemetery.

Besides his wife and mother, Mr. Morrison is survived by a son, Frank H. Morrison III; three daughters, Misses Nan, Elizabeth, and June Morrison, and a brother, Gervis Morrison, all of Atlanta.

Science Shrinks Piles New Way Without Surgery Stops Itch—Relieves Pain
New York, N. Y. (Special) — For the first time science has found a new healing substance with the astonishing ability to shrink hemorrhoids, stop itching, and relieve pain — without surgery.
In one hemorrhoid case after another, "very striking improvement" was reported and verified by doctors' observations.
Pain was relieved promptly. And, while gently relieving pain, actual reduction or retraction (shrinking) took place.
And most amazing of all — this improvement was maintained in cases where doctors' observations were continued over a period of many months!
In fact, results were so thorough that sufferers were able to make such astonishing statements as "Piles have ceased to be a problem!" And among these sufferers were a very wide variety of hemorrhoid conditions, some of 10 to 20 years' standing.
All this, without the use of narcotics, anesthetics or astringents of any kind. The secret is a new healing substance (Bio-Dyne*)—the discovery of a world-famous research institution. Already, Bio-Dyne is in wide use for healing injured tissue on all parts of the body.
This new healing substance is offered in suppository or ointment form called *Preparation H. Ask for individually sealed convenient Preparation H suppositories or Preparation H ointment with special applicator. Preparation H is sold at all drug counters. Satisfaction guaranteed or money refunded.

As I See It

Como Show 'Mix-Up" Adds Human Touch

By PAUL JONES

It couldn't have happened to a nicer guy.

"It" was an embarrassing mixup which caught nice guy Perry Como off guard Saturday night.

I am sure you were watching when Perry was doing a medley of songs, seated at the piano, during the opening part of his show. Perry was faking at the keyboard. In other words, his fingers were moving over the keys as if he was playing his own accompaniment.

Jones

I am almost sure that Perry doesn't play the piano, for while the piano was playing bass notes, Perry had his fingers up in the treble register of the keyboard. But, that is not the story.

An offstage pianist was playing—and he was playing very well—while Perry faked the playing on camera. When Perry thought the song had ended and the piano playing was finished, he stood up and walked away from the baby grand.

Then, suddenly, the piano started playing, as if it was worked over by a phantom musician. The offstage pianist, who apparently could not see Perry, had resumed the piano music.

Perry stopped suddenly, then lunged for the piano. Realizing that he was trapped, he stopped short and grinned. He looked like the small boy who was caught with his hand stuck in the jar of strawberry jam.

On the color TV set, his face turned a bright crimson. He tried to joke his way out of the situation, but he kept on blushing.

My wife told me she had not better read about that incident in the paper. But, I just couldn't resist.

I THINK the fact that Como gets caught in these situations and the fact that he is able to act embarrassed about it all, just adds to the human, warm touch that his show has.

You know several weeks ago he was caught off base when the man with the cue cards dropped one of them on which were the lyrics to one of his songs. Perry wound up humming most of the tune.

He was miffed by the incident, I know, but he managed to turn it into a good laugh. He later repeated the song with the complete lyric.

Again, I say it couldn't have happened to a nicer guy.

IN FACT THIS seems to be an open season on nice guys.

Dick Clark, one of the nicest of the nice guys, got himself into a pickle on his own show which immediately preceded Perry's program Saturday.

Dick was using all sorts of hocus-pocus to introduce the various acts on his show.

In the opening number, Dick made a sextet appear out of a top hat. In another, he sawed a woman into two pieces. He made the audience disappear in one of the commercials.

But, the clincher came when he was supposed to escape from the handcuffs which had been placed on his wrists.

Dick uttered the magic words —Abara Kadabra and he twisted his wrists, but the bracelets refused to come apart.

He repeated the magic words and tossed in some other words — under his breath — which weren't so magical. The bracelet, like the Tar-baby, stuck fast.

Perry Como

Clark wasn't in color, but I am sure his face took on a rosy hue, too. For, he finally had to ad lib his way out of that one, later running backstage to get the manacles unlocked.

OH, WELL, we might have been played for suckers, at that.

You know that all great jugglers occasionally drop an object to keep their acts from looking mechanical. And, all great titerope walkers fake a slip to make their act look dangerous.

Possibly Como and Clark were using these gimmicks to win sympathy.

Who knows?

2 Atlanta Shows Vie for Awards

Special to The Constitution

NEW YORK—Two outstanding Atlanta television shows are among nominees for the forthcoming 1958 Sylvania Television Awards.

The programs nominated are "The Road Back" and "You and Your Health," both seen over WSB-TV, Atlanta.

Nominations, which include both network shows and local programs from around the country, will be reviewed by the Sylvania panel of judges at their meeting in New York from Jan. 9-11.

The 1958 awards will be announced Jan. 22 at the eighth annual Sylvania TV Awards dinner, held at New York's Plaza Hotel.

The committee of judges is headed by Deems Taylor and includes: Marvin Barrett, television editor of NEWSWEEK; Kenneth Bartlett, vice president of Syracuse University; Bob Feller, all-star Cleveland Indians pitcher; Judge Samuel S. Leibowitz, Kings County Court; Elliott Nugent, actor and playwright; Cornelia Otis Skinner, actress and author; and Telford Taylor, lawyer and writer.

Sitting in with the judges will be a panel of TV editors from newspapers around the country.

Spellman Back From GI Visits

NEW YORK (AP)—Francis Cardinal Spellman returned Sunday from a Christmas season tour of overseas military bases. He arrived aboard an Air Force plane after visits to U. S. bases in Italy, Germany, Iceland, Greenland, and Labrador. He started from Rome, after attending a consistory there.

Cage Sera, Sera

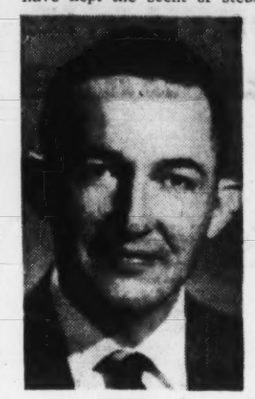
AUBURN, Ala.—Maybe the Auburn band should start playing, "I Don't Want To Set the Gym on Fire," at all of its home basketball games. It would be fair warning to shooters who can't seem to miss and students who can't find a seat.

On second thought, "A Hot Time in the Old Gym Tonight," sounds more appropriate for Coach Joel Eaves' basket-burners, who have kept the scent of steaming hemp curling toward the Sports Arena ceiling all season.



Logue

Unable to locate standing or sitting room among the tightly jammed 3,000 eagerly awaiting the Auburn-Mississippi State tipoff, a hardy but foolish breed climbed into the "attic" Saturday night.

One disturbed electrical wiring aloft and sent a violent hissing and sputtering sound along the copper highway. This incident disturbed all hands and cleared the rafters in record time. For the former "cliff dwellers," Mr. Maestro, please, "Smoke Gets in Your Eyes."

But what selection shall we make for the losers, once unbeaten and nationally ranked Mississippi State youngsters who needed this opener desperately to assure a fast start in the Southeastern Conference derby.

The score, of course, was 97-66. It could have been 10 or 20 points worse had Eaves chosen to ride his No. 1 horses all the way. Obviously there was no holiday spirit at the Holiday Inn when a visitor arrived to check the Maroons' post-slaughter pulse.

But neither were there any tears wept over milk spilled nor baskets missed. Indeed, Coach Babe McCarthy appeared to think, "It's All in the Game." And his players, far from being permanently discouraged, felt, "There's a Great Day Coming, Manana."

"There are going to be a lot of other nights this season," the ever-amiable McCarthy said philosophically. "You remember earlier in the week, I told you that the first horse that got to water would win it. Now you know what I mean.

—Auburn Sacrifices Speed for Height

"They got an early lead and forced us to play their game. If we had taken the quick lead, I think we might have won by 15 points. They would have had to play our game.

"They did last year, and we whipped them twice."

"But they were a better team than we were tonight. They were a great team. I believe in giving credit where credit is due. And you've got to hand it to that white-haired man (Eaves). He runs a perfect offense. Auburn is a better team than last year. Eaves has successfully sacrificed height for speed."

However, McCarthy was far from conceding the championship to Auburn, Kentucky, Tennessee or anybody else quite yet.

"If we can beat Alabama Monday night and Tech Saturday," he continued, "we'll be hard to stop. We're catching Kentucky, Tech and Tennessee on our home court.

"I certainly don't envy Auburn its trip to those three schools. Auburn hit 53.7 per cent tonight, and if it could keep it up on the road there would be your champion."

McCarthy doubts very much that the Plainsmen can.

Eaves isn't making any guesses about his team. Like the Babe, he says one game—even one this big—doesn't make a season.

"Don't count State out, though," he warned. "That big score Saturday night was kind of a fluke thing. They had been on the road all week and were a weary team off in their shooting.

"Babe is correct in what he said about the way the game started having so much bearing on the outcome. I think it effects State even more than it does us.

"If they get ahead, they are going to take the ball out and spread your defense by making you come and get it. There is no one man in the country going to stop Bailey Howell. And spreading your defense will ruin you."

It was obviously such a remarkable team effort that Eaves was reluctant to single out individuals. He was naturally pleased with rebounding chores that injured Rex Frederick and big Bill Gregory contributed, plus their defending against all-America Howell.

"Jimmy Lee played a darn good ball game," he said. "And Jimmy Fibbe did a fine job on Howell. The kid isn't tough enough yet, but he's smart. Dave Vaughn and Porter Gilbert were other sophomores who helped a lot.

—'Won't You Go Home, Big Bailey . . .'

"I was well pleased with our team defense and the boys' shooting. Even our smallers players were scrapping on the backboard."

"Please don't forget to mention," McCarthy interjected, "that none of our players quit. They kept scrapping to the final whistle."

That, they did.

Two of the scrappiest lay stretched out reading magazines in their motel room. . . . Stretched out as well as a 6-7 fellow can in a 6-2 bed.

Captain Jerry Keeton and Howell, an all-America on and off the court, spoke frankly of the rout.

"They beat the heck out of us," Howell said with a grin. "They were hitting everything they threw up there. And we were missing our shots. That is the best bunch of shooters we have played."

"Everyone has one of those nights when the ball won't fall in," Keeton interrupted. "And this was one of 'em for us. I thought Maryland was tougher defensively out front."

"Maybe so," responded Howell, "but Auburn would whip Maryland. That shuffle offense is tough, and when we stopped it with our zone, they wore us out from the outside."

Howell usually sinks better than half his shots, but went only 7 for 27 against Auburn. The Tiger defense had him popping from a distance in the last half, and he made good only two of 13 attempts during the last 20 minutes.

"I had the good shots," big Bailey insisted, "but that was my worst shooting night since I've been in college. It is the only time I have seen our entire team off at one time. Usually one player will come through to pick us up."

"When you have been winning steadily and suddenly get licked like this, how do you bounce back?" his visitor asked.

"Last year we didn't," Howell replied. "After Tech broke our streak we went into a tailspin. We have got to have that game with Alabama Monday night to stay in the race."

These words were delivered with such obvious dedication, I look for Tuscaloosa fans by halftime to be humming, "Won't You Go Home, Big Bailey, Won't You Go Home."

SEC PLAYER OF WEEK

COFFMAN...HE'S RUPP'S MR. CLUTCH

By PAUL ATKINSON

"Boy," Kentucky coach Adolph Rupp was saying to Wildcat guard Bennie Coffman Saturday after a 72-62 victory over Georgia Tech, "you're either a fairly good guard . . . or you're lucky."

Either way Coffman, a six-foot, 173-pound Huntington, W. Va., native, was sufficiently impressive during the week to earn The Constitution's accolade of Player of the Week in the Southeastern Conference.

Here're the junior guard's accomplishments during the week:

Scored 19 points in the Kentuckians' 82-69 win over Navy.

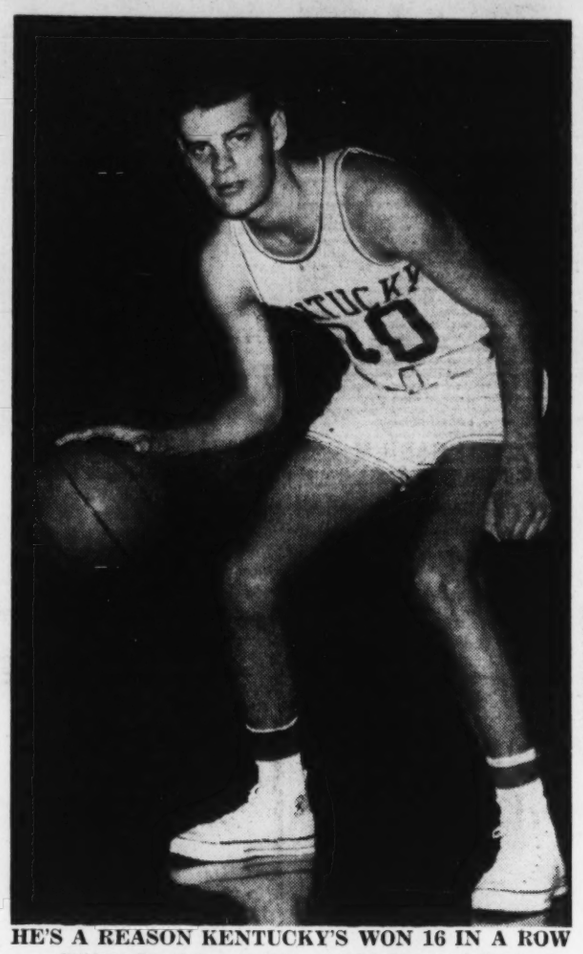
Hit 16 points, guarded tremendously well in the Cats' 76-75 squeaker past Illinois.

Zinged the nets for only nine points against Tech, but six came in a first half rush that saw Kentucky turn a 22-17 deficit into a 28-24 advantage, and an eventual 35-30 half-time bulge.

This, for the most part, was a week of sterling work by SEC players. Coffman's own teammate, Johnny Cox, was superb, especially rebounding; Tech's Buddy Blemker hit 24 against Alabama, 18 against Kentucky; and Auburn had a whole handful of people in its "team" victory of 97-66 over Mississippi State, including Jimmy Lee, Bill Gregory and Rex Frederick. And State, despite the loss, got bejeweled shows from 6-7 all-America Bailey Howell in copping the Sugar Bowl, and he was high scorer with 19 points against Auburn.



HE'S A REASON KENTUCKY'S WON 16 IN A ROW

Wildcat Guard Bennie Coffman SEC Player of Week

Coffman, however, was steadiest overall as Kentucky ran a win streak to 16 games, 11 this season.

Rupp was speaking of Coffman Sunday. "Yes," he said, "I would have to call him the biggest surprise of the new people on my squad. You know, he's a transfer from a junior college in Columbia, Ky.

"He definitely turned in his best game of the season against Tech. Held that little Randall (Terry) to five points when he was in there, and scored some big points for us."

Coffman showed his clutch ability particularly in the sixth game this campaign. Kentucky trailed Maryland, 54-51, with three seconds remaining; Coffman drove for the basket, dropped one in and was fouled in the process. He hit the free throw to tie it 54-54, sending the game into overtime and Kentucky consequently won, 58-56.

Tech held an early upper hand on Kentucky Saturday. The lead was one time at sev-

Very seldom does Kentucky go for a junior college transfer. Only three others have donned Wildcat uniforms. But Coffman established a reputation as quite a shooter, firing in 564 points last season for a 25.6 per game report.

And Wildcat foes—Navy, Illinois and Tech of late—won't dispute that now.

Bulldogs Prepare 'Slowdown' For Tulane Invasion Tonight

By AL THOMY

Red Lawson and his Bulldog band announce a new theme song . . . "When in Doubt, Throw It About."

"We're going back to the deliberate, ball-control type of play we've used in the past," explained Lawson Sunday as he devised new plans for Tulane's Monday night invasion.

"No more of this running and shooting business, at least for now. Frankly I thought we had a bunch of pretty good shooters early in the season. We haven't maintained a consistency in our scoring, so the recourse is control basketball. We'll work it around, wait for the good shot."

Lawson reviewed statistics of Saturday's 79-66 loss to LSU.

"We shot 86 times, hit 29, which is two more field goals than LSU scored in 58 shots. Thus we gave them a chance to gain possession on all those misses. That's what we hope to remedy in the return to the slowdown game. Mind you, I'm not talking of ultra control, just a slowdown."

Monday night's SEC team may develop into a duel of the slowest guns in the conference. Tulane arriving confidently on a respectable 8-3 foundation, also plays the control game.

Pat Casey

"Not that I prefer it," answered coach Cliff Wells from his Athens hotel, "but out of necessity we play possession. I'd rather run and shoot—and so would others, I imagine—but you fit the system to the material. We'll wait for our shots."

Wells has built his attack around center Vic Klinker (6-5) and guard Gary Stoll. Averaging 20 points per game, Klinker fired 28 as Tulane whipped Florida, 68-62, Saturday night.

"A lack of height handicaps us considerably," said Wells. "You hear talk about how small Auburn is but when you hit 50 per cent of your shots there are no rebounds to get. Us 30 per centers have got to get in there and pick off a few."

Gary Stoll

Success has not spoiled Cliff Wells.

Rebounds Saved Cats, Says Rupp

Kentucky Coach Moaning Over His, Tech's Shooting

"It wasn't a very good game," the nation's No. 1 coach said Sunday night.

"Why if either team had been hitting, they would have run the other out of the gymnasium."

Bud Blemker

Kentucky's Adolph Rupp thus capsuled his team's 72-62 decision over Georgia Tech, the undefeated Wildcats' 16th win in a row and their 11th straight this season.

Going into the contest with a 41.7 per cent shooting eye, the defending SEC and NCAA titlists could connect on only 26 of 89 from the floor for a puny 29.2 average. And Tech, carrying a 36.9 mark into the SEC opener, could collect on only 21 of 66 for a 31.8 percentile.

"Rebounding saved us," Rupp continued. "Tech was getting one shot at the basket and we were getting two, three and four.

"Don Mills and Billy Ray Lickert played a helluva game for us under the boards. Why, these two boys alone outrebounded the entire Tech team. They (Mills 22, Lickert 21) had 43, and Tech only had 39."

Teamwise, Kentucky claimed 73 off the boards.

How come the frigid firing?

"We've had to fight our guts out in the first 10 games before the conference ever started," Rupp continued. "In the process our youngsters have picked up some valuable experience and seem to be a little bit ahead of schedule.

"But we're a tired ball club. It showed Saturday night. The past two weeks, my entire team has lost from three to six pounds a man. And Lickert's down 11 pounds . . . of course, he's been ill, though."

Starter Johnny Cox and reserve Mills were Rupp's only returnees from last year's championship squad. Cox, a pre-season All-America, was held to five points by the Jackets. He entered the fray with a 19.0 average.

"One of the papers this morning said that Cox being the only put too much pressure on him," starter back from last year had Rupp offered. "And I'll buy that, plus the fact that Johnny told me before the Tech game that he was tired."

How did the Jackets look?

"Team-wise, not so good . . . just like us," Rupp continued. "They weren't playing their best ball, and neither were we. But don't get me wrong, Hyder (coach Whack) has a good ball club. It's about the same one that beat us last year.

"Individually . . . oh my Lord. Thank goodness I don't have to play that little guard Blemker (Buddy, who scored 18 points)

Carson Leaves 'Skin Lineup For Savannah Bowling Lanes

Keeping Eyes On Golf Horizon

By GEORGE CUNNINGHAM

Johnny Carson Sunday retired from professional football, accepted a bowling position, but still has golf on his mind.

Called by a veteran observer "the most versatile athlete Georgia ever produced," the Washington Redskin end will be general manager of Live Oaks Lanes, a mammoth bowling establishment nearing completion in Savannah.

"It was a tremendous deal for me," Carson said via telephone from Athens. "I couldn't afford to turn it down."

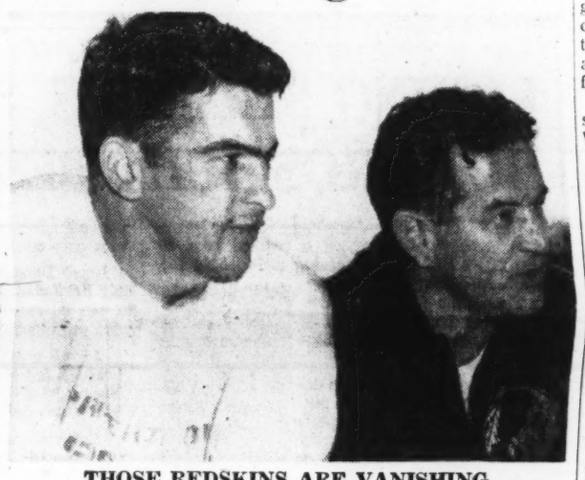
"It was a difficult decision to make. But after five years in the pros, I felt I should look with favor on other business opportunities as they present themselves. And I consider this a good one."

After four productive years with the Redskins, during which the Georgia all-America caught 108 passes for 1,646 yards and nine touchdowns, Carson spent most of 1958 on the bench with injuries.



THOSE REDSKINS ARE VANISHING

"I'm 28, have a wife and son, and not getting any younger," the ex-Atlanta Roosevelt High sports great continued.

"Then, too, it will be the first time I'll be able to devote any appreciable amount of time to golf. In my football days I always had to start getting ready for the next season in April.

"It's no secret my first love is golf. I've always wanted to give the pro circuit a try. There's no rush, and the slack periods in my new bowling job will be spent sharpening up my golf game.

"Eventually I'll try it. First I must have enough capital available to give my family some security."

The 6-4, 200-pound picture athlete was a regular "do-it-all" at Roosevelt from 1946-49. He was an all-state gridder in the fall, an all-state cager in the winter and participated in three sports during the spring.

A sound baseball and track performer, Carson was exceptional in golf. He and his Roosevelt links mates never lost a match in three years, capturing the Southeastern prep championship in 1949 at Chattanooga, Tennessee.

At Georgia, he was the first man to letter in four different sports—football, basketball, baseball, golf—since Morton Hodgson Sr., in 1929.

But can he bowl?

"Yes," Carson laughed over

Crackers Sell Gorin To Houston Club

Star of 1950 Flag Race Goes To Native Texas Conditionally

By CHARLIE ROBERTS

One of the heaviest contributors to Atlanta's 1950 pennant march became an ex-Cracker for the second time Sunday when pitcher Charlie Gorin was sold conditionally to Houston of the American Association.

Sale of Gorin, who as a 1950 rookie won 10 games after July 30 in the flag race and Shaughnessy playoffs for Dixie Walker's Southern Assn. champions, was announced Sunday by Cracker president - owner Earl Mann.

Charlie Gorin

The pint-sized lefthander, tagged a "sure - fire" major - leager-to-be after hurling University of Texas to the 1950 NCAA championship before joining Atlanta, saw action in 32 games here last season. He posted a 2-3 record after being obtained on option from Wichita May 16.

Gorin, who will be 31 on Feb. 6, hurled only one complete game for Buddy Bates' 1958 Crackers, being used chiefly as a "short" relief hurler. He beat Nashville in Sulphur Dell, 6-2, with a seven-hitter on May 31 and pitched 10⅓ brilliant scoreless innings in Little Rock June 9. Otherwise he had little success, hurling only 83 innings in all. He allowed 79 hits and 41 runs—36 earned—while walking 48 and fanning 63.

"Houston wants to have a look at Charlie in spring training, and if they like what they see then and after the first 30 days of the season, we'll get cash for him," Mann said. "He's a Texan and is anxious to pitch in his native state again."

Baylor, Garmaker Top Warriors

PHILADELPHIA (AP)—The Minneapolis Lakers took advantage of injuries and two shooting lapses to run away Sunday with a 111-95 victory over the Philadelphia Warriors in a nationally-televised National Basketball Assn. game.

High men for Minneapolis were Elgin Baylor with 28 points and Dick Garmaker who scored 24 before fouling out in the fourth period. It was the Lakers' fifth straight triumph.

Philadelphia went into the game without the services of its starting backcourt pair, Tom Gola and Guy Rodgers. Gola has an infected right foot and Rodgers was in bed with the grippe.

Minneapolis immediately took advantage of the Warriors' manpower shortage and vaulted from a 2-2 tie to a 20-4 lead in the first eight minutes of play.

The last 14 of the Lakers' points came in succession. During the rally the Warriors were able to make only one of 19 field goal attempts and when the period ended with Minneapolis ahead, 26-10, the Warriors had made just three of 28 shots. Minneapolis meanwhile had an 11-33 log.

The Lakers again capitalized on poor Philadelphia shooting at the outset of the second period. The Warriors made one basket in 16 tries in the first four minutes and the Lakers increased their margin to 37-16.

Ole Miss 'Highboys' Block Path to Auburn's 20th Win

Towering Rebs Invade Plain

By MICKEY LOGUE
Constitution Sports Writer

AUBURN, Ala. — Auburn goes mountain climbing after its 20th straight basketball triumph here Monday night.

Ole Miss may not be the most insurmountable obstacle in the Southeastern Conference, but it is certain to be one of the biggest.

Junior Ivan Richmann, who uses his 6-7 frame to good scoring advantage under the basket, and fellow junior Louis Griffin are the tallest trees in Coach Country Graham's basketball forest.

They stretch two inches above Auburn's tallest regular, 6-5 Co-Captain Rex Frederick.

Richmann and Griffin are supported in the rebounding wars by Jack Peters, a 6-4 sophomore.

Big Ivan pumped in 24 points during State's lid-lifting conference loss to Alabama at Tuscaloosa this weekend. The Tide rolled, 89-76. But Auburn awaits the tipoff cautiously.

"They have a good, big ball club," Auburn's Joel Eaves said Sunday. "We remember that Richman from last season. He's a tough boy."

Auburn's height miseries were lessened by Bill Gregory's return to the form that helped upset Kentucky last spring. After Frederick drew three fast fouls, the 6-8, 215-pound Gregory landed on State like the Marines at Iwo Jima.

However, Gregory's size makes fitting into Auburn's race-horse system a chore for him.

Guards Jimmy Lee (6-1) and Henry Hart (6-1) and forwards David Vaughn (6-3) and Jimmy Fibbe (6-3) probably will start alongside Frederick for Auburn.

Sophomores Porter Gilbert and Ray Groover, junior Bayward McManus and seniors Ty Samples and Gregory stand ready for reserve duty.

Mississippi's main problem will be outshooting a team that consistently hits 50 per cent of its shots.

STATE'S BABE McCARTHY WANTS TIME OUT

RULE'S A RULE: EAVES

Why Get Technical? State's Babe Asks

AUBURN, Ala.—A technical foul that eliminated the opening tipoff caused a mild controversy after Mississippi State met Auburn this weekend.

Southeastern Conference rules specify that players' numerals must contrast with their shirts.

Auburn Coach Joel Eaves contended that State uniforms failed to fulfill contrast regulations, and the officials agreed. They charged the Maroons a technical foul before the game started.

Tiger guard Jimmy Lee missed the shot. Auburn then took the ball out at mid-court, worked in for a field goal try and misfired. A few seconds later, State launched the night's scoring with Bailey Howell's free throw.

Although emphasizing he thought the technical had absolutely no influence on the final 97-66 outcome, State's Babe McCarthy said sharply, "We had played nine games this season without anybody complaining about our uniforms. We twice waived the rule against other teams, Union and Arkansas State.

"If Auburn had made the free throw and basket and then beaten us by three points, the newspapers would have said, 'Auburn found a flaw in State's uniform and won by three points.'

"They would have whipped us tonight if we had been wearing undershirts, but I don't like the principle of the thing. You can say that we will have white numbers and new uniforms against Alabama Monday night."

State star Bailey Howell also thought the foul didn't effect the outcome. "I guess they hoped to get a quick three-point lead and bring us out of our zone," he said. "They missed but got us out of our zone anyway."

"I thought he (McCarthy) was unduly excited over the officials enforcing the rule," Eaves countered Sunday. "It is something they should call automatically without getting the coaches involved. If numbers that don't contrast with the shirt weren't harmful to the other ball club, the rule wouldn't be in the book.

"Those Maroon numbers with a fringe of white are hard to distinguish against the Maroon background, especially after the players get sweaty. Howell wore 52 and (Jerry) Graves 53. Those boys look an awful lot alike. So do (Charlie) Hull and (Dale) Fisher.

"I'm not going to sit there and let them get away with something illegal that will hurt my kids," Eaves finished emphatically, "and I'm not going to cough up my chitlings just because Babe gets excited about having a rule enforced."

GORIN

Charlie recently returned to the United States after pitching most of the season for Ponce in the Venezuelan winter league.

Gorin, then a promising youngster, contributed a 7-1 won-lost chart to the Crackers' 1950 pennant march, then won three games in the playoffs. He posted a glittering 1.75 earned-run-average.

His most shining hour in his break-in year came on Aug. 30 when he fashioned a one-hitter against Nashville with baseball's great Ty Cobb in the audience. Cobb was at Ponce de Leon for the unveiling of a plaque in his honor.

The popular southpaw, plagued by arm trouble, has never quite reached the heights his potential promised although he had two brief flings with the parent Milwaukee Braves.

His best year was 12-9 in 1951 for Milwaukee when that club was still in the American Assn. He spent almost his entire career in the Braves organization, most of it with Toledo and Wichita in the Class AAA American Assn.

"We wish Gorin the best of luck at Houston," said Mann. "He was always popular with players and fans here. I'll never forget what a terrific pitcher he was in 1950."

Mincey Gains Pole Position

Special to The Constitution

DALLAS—Rain and cold caused postponement of the 100-lap SRE late model auto race here Sunday, but time trials were completed. The race was rescheduled for next Sunday.

Charley Mincey of Atlanta, driving a '57 Chevrolet, gained the pole position and set a track record of 20.20 for the three-eighths track.

Behind him, in order were: Roscoe Thompson, '57 Chevrolet; Benny Rakestraw, '57 Mercury; George Alsobrooks, '57 Chevrolet, and Gober Sosebee, '57 Studebaker Hawk.

LORINO SHIMMIES, SHAKES, BUT PROS HULA BEST, 47-27

HONOLULU (UPI)—Pittsburgh Steeler quarterback Bobby Layne rifled a 90-yard pass to Green Bay's Bill Howton Sunday to highlight the Hawaii All-Stars 47-27 victory over the college All-Stars in the 13th annual Hula Bowl game before 20,000 in Honolulu Stadium.

Tommy Lorino

But the collegians even in defeat put on a magnificent performance, led by Michigan's Bob Ptacek, Auburn's Tommy Lorino and Notre Dame's Nick Pietrosante. On defense it was Michigan State's Sam Williams who played the spoiler for many of Layne's plays.

Ptacek quarterbacked the collegians throughout the game, passing for two touchdowns and turning in a sparkling 42-yard touchdown run in the fourth period.

It was a close game until midway in the fourth period when the Hawaii All-Stars broke loose with three touchdowns in rapid succession, featured by Layne's pass from his 10 to Howton all alone on the collegian 40 from where he raced to score untouched.

Howton was on the receiving end of several other long gainers, scoring three times in all.

Lorino of the collegians was a running and pass-catching demon although he was credited with only one score—that one a one-yard plunge.

Notre Dame's Bob Williams was in the game only briefly on offense, but that was long enough to run up some yardage and score on a seven-yard pass from Ptacek.

Layne connected for 20 passes out of 33 attempted for a total yardage of 457 yards while Ptacek tried the aerial route 27 times connecting for 13 and 160 yards.

The collegians held the Hawaii team to 138 yards on the ground while bursting through for 309 ground yards themselves.

Howton was selected as outstanding lineman for the Hawaii All-Stars by sports writers while Layne was chosen as the outstanding back on that team. The writers chose Ptacek as the best back and Sam Williams as top lineman for the collegians.

Michigan State coach Duffy Daugherty headed the College All-Star squad while Elroy Hirsch, former Los Angeles Ram star, coached the Hawaii All-Stars.

Big O, Bearcats Face Braves' Test

Two-in-a-Row Losers Bid To Regain Win Trail

NEW YORK (AP)—Cincinnati, the nation's No. 2 college basketball team, will attempt to get back on the winning trail Monday after a rough time in the Dixie Classic at Raleigh, N.C.

Big Oscar Robertson and his Bearcat mates have an old rival, Bradley, the nation's No. 10 team, in this important Missouri Valley Conference struggle at Cincinnati. Bradley used three teams and drubbed Drake in a Saturday conference opener, 91-57.

After beating Wake Forest in the first round of the Dixie Classic, Cincinnati was thumped in the semifinals by North Carolina State, 69-60. Then North Carolina put on a terrific finish to beat Cincinnati for third place, 90-88.

Meanwhile, unbeaten Kentucky rolled to its 11th straight victory with a late rally Saturday night, downing Georgia Tech, 72-62, in a Southeastern Conference scrap.

The nation's No. 1 team and the national NCAA champions of last season didn't look so hot in the first half. With a little more than six minutes to go in the game, Tech tied the score at 59-all. Then Sid Cohen and Billy Ray Lickert led Kentucky's closing rally. Each scored 17 points. Kentucky hits the road this week, meeting Vanderbilt Tuesday, then Louisiana State.

Five other teams in the top 10 won during the week, most of the action coming in tournament play. Kansas State, No. 3 and winner of the Big Eight Conference tournament in a 67-66 tussle with Colorado, plays at Iowa State Monday.

The No. 4 team, North Carolina, beaten by Michigan State in the Dixie Classic, came back for its victory over Cincinnati. In a Saturday television game, the Tar Heels displayed too much class for Notre Dame, winning 69-54. Lee Shaffer scored 19 points for North Carolina in a game costly for the losers. Two Notre Dame players, co-captain Tom Hawkins sprained an ankle that may keep him idle 10 days, while Don McGann broke a collar bone.

DETROIT (AP)—The Detroit Red Wings battled from behind on rookie Len Lunde's final period goal and tied the league leading Montreal Canadiens, 2-2, Sunday night.

Wall's Second Straight 68 Grabs 54-Hole Lead in Los Angeles Open

LOS ANGELES (AP)—The old guard—in the person of Art Wall Jr.—took charge of the $35,000 Los Angeles Open golf tournament Sunday.

Wall shot his second straight three-under par 68 for a 54-hole score of 207.

Playing magnificent golf, the 35-year-old veteran from Pocono Manor, Pa., grabbed a one-stroke lead over the second-round leader, 25-year-old Doug Sanders of Miami Beach, Fla., who slipped to a 73 for 208 after starting out four blows in front of Wall.

Alone at 209 was Billy Maxwell of Odessa, Tex., with a 72 and still in dangerous position to take it all in the final round Monday.

Wall made the tour of the Rancho Golf Course's 7,000-yard, par 36-35—71 course, in 35-33—68. His earlier rounds were 71 and 68.

Fifth-leading PGA money winner last year, the smooth-hitting, deadly-putting Wall did a remarkable job on several holes, notably the eighth. There he came off the side of a hill over trees to land 25 feet from the pin and hole out for a birdie four.

Leading scorers after the third round: Art Wall Jr., 71-68-68—207; Doug Sanders, 66-69-73—208; Billy Maxwell, 67-70-72—209; Tommy Bolt, 69-70-71—210; Mike Souchak, 69-72-69—210; John McMullin, 66-70-74—210; Lloyd Mangrum, 69-72-70—211; Howie Johnson, 69-71-71—211; Johnny Bulla, 64-77-71—212; Arnold Palmer, 72-69-72—213; Mike Homa, 73-70-70—213; Dutch Harrison, 72-69-72—213; Julius Boros, 72-69-72—213; Jack Fleck, 68-75-70—213; Jim Ferree, 70-71-72—213.

Golf for All

Aaron Passes Test With 67 at Masters

By Bert Prather

Tommy Aaron isn't one to just "putter" away his time even during the Christmas holidays.

The University of Florida senior, who qualified for the 1959 Augusta Masters by finishing runner-up to Charlie Coe in U.S. Amateur at San Francisco's Olympic Club last September, got to thinking that he'd never even seen Augusta National Golf Club.

Since his native Gainesville doesn't have a golf course at the present time, Tommy figured that rather than drive to Athens or Atlanta for a game, it would be an excellent idea to go to Augusta instead and play the National.

So a few days ago, in company with his father, Charlie Aaron, Bill Hardigree and David Hill, assistant pro to Gene Stout at ANGC, Tommy got his first look at the course upon which he will play April 2-5 along with the world's greatest professionals and amateurs.

And what he saw he liked, or, at least he should have. Playing from the championship markers, the twice Southeastern Conference champ shot a neat five under par 67.

Hardigree said, "It was the finest round of golf I've ever seen. Tommy had six birdies and only one bogie. That one came on 10 where he hit a beautiful drive but his second rolled off to the left of the green."

Of course there is no way of checking on such matters, but local linksters must have established some sort of a mark for canning aces during the so-called "slow" season.

During the past seven days, Atlanta sharpshooters have hit the target five times.

It all started last Monday when Len Kotecki slammed a four wood home on the 200-yard par three No. 6 at Pete Cole's Piedmont Park course.

Tuesday, Tommy Tillman holed out a seven iron for an ace on the 145-yard No. 11 at Capital City CC while playing in a foursome with Ben Allen, Ralph Paris Jr., and Ken Malsberger.

Then came a two-day lull while the boys celebrated New Year's Eve and watched football bowl games on TV Jan. 1.

But action picked up Friday (Jan. 2) when Bill Hardigree aced the 14th at North Fulton.

And continued Saturday at Billy Wilson's Bobby Jones layout where Albert Poss Jr. holed an eight iron on the 140-yard eighth hole. His partners were Emmett Wilson, who had previously pitched in on No. 6 with a seven-iron for an eagle deuce; Abe Massar and Albert Stallworth.

One could have gotten odds that Sunday's raw, windy weather would have been an ace-less day here. But later Sunday afternoon came a call from Johnny Livingstone's Standard T&CC pro shop that Dr. Irvin Blumenthal had kept the ace string going.

Dr. Blumenthal, who had to make a call at the hospital and thus arrived at Standard T&CC too late to play with his regular foursome, joined up with Herbert Cohen, Frank Lesser and Al Davis and almost immediately impressed them by scoring an ace. He made it with a four iron on the par three 175-yard second hole. Lew Aronstan, was gallerying the foursome.

James Cotsakis, who was playing with Kotecki when he made his hole in one, plays Piedmont every day it doesn't rain or sleet. And his average score is about 36 on the par 34 nine-hole layout, according to Pete Cole. What's unusual about tihs? Well, "Mr. Jim" is 76 years young.

CHIP SHOTS: Chalk up a December ace for J. E. Thomason. Thomaston sports editor Charles Gordy reports J. E. holed out a five wood on the 180-yard No. 6 at Thomaston CC while playing in a fivesome with Bill Cliff, Chris Neubert, Julian Edwards and Tom Dunaway. He was hitting into a strong wind. . . . Lonnie Booth, who is not accustomed to such good fortune, holed out a nine iron for an eagle two on 18 at Paul Lavin's Adams course. He had a 39 on the nine. John Castleman, Tom Sorrow and John Morris were his playing partners. . . . Candler Park pro Jim Yates and wife Nell will leave Thursday for a short vacation in Florida. Jim plans to play in the Vero Beach pro-am next week.

Brooks, Rakestraw Run 1-2 In 3-AAA Basketball Scoring

Tiger's Total Of 62 Leads All

Jerry Brooks and Larry Rakestraw, juniors in scoring, run 1-2 in the 3-AAA basketball point derby, in figures compiled by The Constitution.

Brooks, lone starter returning to Edd O'Quinn at Northside and named Sunday The Constitution's first Greater Atlanta Prep Basketball Player of the Week, is riding fast with 62 points in two games, 35 against Southwest and 27 at Bass' expense. This is a 31.0 average.

Rakestraw, solidly built West Fulton back court individual, fired for 26 in a 66-62 loss to Sylvan, 33 in 65-47 defeat by Southwest. He averages 29.5 off 59 points in two games.

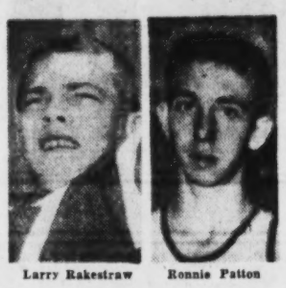
Surprise club of 3-AAA West, Southwest, contributes tall Gene Lewis to the scoring proceedings. He has sacked 54 points in two games, 30 against Northside and 24 against West Fulton.

Smith center Ronnie Patton has been a consistently fine scorer for Shirley Watkins' Smithies. He had



Larry Rakestraw — Ronnie Patton

22 points Friday, 23 Saturday. Murphy Guard Melvin Clay rippled the nets for 27 points in a win over Roosevelt, scored 17 over Smith for a two-game tote of 44 and fifth place.

Completing the top 10 are Brown's Doug Watts, 17.0; Sylvan's Doug Cooper and Tommy Roberts, 16.0 apiece; Bass' Billy Duncan, 15.5; and Grady's Jerry Katz, 15.0.

Team-wise, Northside has scored at a stinging 72.5 points per game clip, yet is just 1-1 in 3-AAA West. Brown and Southwest average 68 points a game; North Fulton, 59.0; and Murphy, 56.5. Defensively, Grady has surrendered only 36.0 points a game; Murphy, 42.5; and North Fulton, 43.5.

Murphy's Sims Tops the Girls

On the distaff side of the ledger, Murphy's Sarah Sims leads point makers with 58 in two games—a per game mark of 29.0. Northside's Mary Rosebush, apparently taking up the scoring slack left by the graduation of Caryl Lenahan, has scored 57 for a 28.5 charting. Brown's Rita Puckett has a 24.0 mark.

A. T. Harmon's Murphy girls dominate team statistics. The lady Eagles have scored 117 points to their foes' 36—a sizzling report card of 58.5 points per game to 18. —ATKINSON.

Brooks Named Prep Basketball Player of Week

Jerry Brooks, a pencil-slim 5-11, 135-pound point-maker, is The Constitution's first Greater Atlanta Prep Basketball Player of the Week.

Brooks merited that selection, first in a weekly series, off a vigorous point show over the weekend. He pumped in 35 points in a losing 71-68 game to Southwest, returned Saturday night to zip in 27 against Bass despite playing less than 15 minutes.

"He's a dedicated player," Northside coach Edd O'Quinn said of his junior star Sunday night. "Jerry really works at the game."

"Of course, he's not large. He shoots a good jump shot. And he can drive with the best. His defense has improved this season.

Brooks won out over Larry Rakestraw of West Fulton, Gene Lewis of Southwest, Doug Cooper of Sylvan and James Edmondson of Russell.

"Why that little rascal actually fell into the second row of seats after he made one shot. He's uncanny.

"Tech's new faces? That big boy Richards (soph Wayne, 6-7) played a good game, I thought."

Hyder, whose Jackets returned to Atlanta Sunday night with a 6-4 over-all and 0-1 SEC slate, agreed with Rupp:

"It wasn't a good game for either club," he said. "Both teams got good shots but couldn't make them. They out-rebounded us because they were more aggressive and better jumpers.

"When a fellow like Johnny Cox can only hit on one field goal in 18 tries—and he had some good shots—you know it's a cold night. It was contagious."

CARVER'S SECOND

Cheek Sets 2-AAA Nets Afire, Leads Scoring Race With 23.5

Special to The Constitution

SAVANNAH — Statistics are somewhat misleading this week, so far as Region 2-AAA is concerned. Richmond Academy's talented little guard, Benny Cheek, rests atop the individual point standings with a 23.5 average, but the defending champion Musketeers are nestled at the bottom of the eight-team league.

Despite outputs of 31 and 23 points last week by Cheek, a 5-9 senior, guard, the Musketeers dropped their first two region starts, a 79-77 overtime thriller to Groves and a 66-57 decision to Savannah High.

Cheek's production raised his season's total to 141 for six games. He is far out front of a couple of hotshots dueling for second place, Coffee County's W. A. Carver and Jenkins High's Richard Hall.

Carver, a 5-6 junior guard, has 160 points in nine games for a 17.7 mark, slightly better than Hall's 17.5, compiled on 70 points in four games.

Rounding out the top half-dozen are Groves High's Hugh Rich (15.2) and Savannah High's Keevil Helmly and Hennon Warren (both 14.7).

The tempo quickened last week as three players soared over the "30" figure. Cheek collected 31 in the losing effort against Groves, Carver hit a seasonal high of 35 in Coffee's Hahira Invitational victory over Pine Grove and Ed Clark, a 6-1 junior forward recently awarded a starting berth, dumped in 30 to spark Savannah High's win over Richmond.

Coach Sy Wright's SHS Blue Jackets, runner-up to the Musketeers last year, and Coach Bob Alexander's Coffee County Comets share the early season lead with 3-0 records. Both are away to flying starts against all comers, the Jackets with a 6-1 mark and the Comets 7-2.

As a result of streaks, both Richmond and Glynn Academy are 3-3 overall. The Musketeers after winning their first three the hopes of ending a slump in which the Bulldogs have dropped four of five.

"In retrospect," said Lawson, "perhaps we were a little overrated. Teams we've beaten—Clemson, South Carolina, Flo— and FSU—are all having . . . seasons. The cruel, analytical fact on this Sabbath day is perhaps we're not as good as we thought we were."

Out of the LSU defeat emerged one encouraging note. Forward Pat Casey, a gritty sophomore, sparked a second half surge in which the Bulldogs threatened to pull up, though never quite making it. Casey scored 15 points, grabbed 13 rebounds and comported himself with honor on the floor. He may have won the starting berth from fellow soph Don Kelser on this particular performance.

Guard Fred Edmondson hit 19 points, yet missed far too many—for him—before the baskets started dropping.

Lawson said he would go with his regular lineup in the Tulane game, with Casey possibly replacing Keiser at forward. Sonny Poss will be at the other forward post, John Johnson at center and Edmondson and Gordon Darrah at guards.

"We're still looking for the right combination," concluded Lawson. "All positions are wide open, as far as I'm concerned."

After Tulane, Georgia Tech moves into Woodruff Hall on Wednesday night as Athens basketball tempo speeds up . . . though the game may slow down.

NCAA May Take Over Power To Rule Athletes' Eligibility

Stu in 'Stew' Over Miami

From Wire Dispatches

The advance forces of some 2,200 college sports leaders began arriving in Cincinnati Sunday for the 53rd convention of the National Collegiate Athletic Assn., governing body of most college athletics.

The NCAA will hold many committee meetings Monday and Tuesday. It probably will issue proposed legislation for tightening eligibility rules for athletes. The group was expected to take over power to rule over eligibility of any athlete.

In addition, announcements of infractions and penalties against certain member schools are almost certain to come forth along with a recommendation to halt raiding of rival schools for athletes.

Other action expected: 1—Discussion of NCAA TV; 2—American Football Coaches Assn. meeting reviewing its own code of ethics and NCAA code of policies and practices emphasized by recent firing of Terry Brennan at Notre Dame; 3—usual blast of major leagues for campus raiding by baseball coaches.

CONTROVERSY: Stu Holcomb, Northwestern athletic director, denounced recruiting policies of Miami of Florida in the case of Mike McCoy, a freshman basketball center who reportedly will not return to Northwestern and is headed for Miami. "I can't believe Miami doesn't know something about this," Holcomb said. "A boy doesn't get up and go that far away without some premeditation or inducement." Said Miami AD Jack Harding: "There was a story in the Miami Sunday papers and that's all I have heard of it."

BASKETBALL: Northwestern senior forward Phil Warren will be lost to the team for three weeks as a result of a foot bone fracture.

NBA BASKETBALL: Two free throws by Bob Cousy in the last 38 seconds gave Boston Celtics 111-108 victory over Cincinnati. Cousy scored 26. . . . John Kerr bucketed 31 to lead Syracuse over Detroit, 118-94. He also had 23 rebounds. . . . Richie Guerin scored 25 and Ron Sobie 18 as New York Knicks stopped St. Louis, 122-114. Cliff Hagan had 34, Bob Pettit 31 for Hawks. BASEBALL: Cleveland released scout Steve O'Neill and public relations director Harrison Dillard, a former track star. . . . Los Angeles Dodgers purchased the Orlando club of the Florida State League.

WEEKLY BRIDGE QUIZ

Q. 1—As South you hold:
♠J 10 4 3 ♥K 9 8 ♦A 9 7 ♣Q 7 6
Your partner opens with one spade. What is your response?

A.—Two spades. This hand is worth 10 points in support of partner's suit, which brings it barely within the limits of a single raise.

Q. 2—As South you hold:
♠A 3 ♥K 10 4 ♦K 9 2 ♣Q 10 9 6 4
The bidding has proceeded:

| West | North | East | South |
|---|---|---|---|
| Pass | Pass | Pass | 1 ♣ |
| Pass | 1 ♥ | Pass | ? |

What do you bid now?

A.—You made a slightly shaded opening bid in the third seat and, having adequate heart support, should pass at this point. Since partner failed to jump, it seems safe to assume that game is out of the question.

Q. 3—As South you hold:
♠A J 9 ♥A 6 3 ♦Q 4 3 2 ♣10 8 5
The bidding has proceeded:

| North | East | South | West |
|---|---|---|---|
| 1 ♣ | Pass | 1 ♦ | Pass |
| 2 NT. | Pass | ? | |

What do you bid now?

A.—Three no trump. The points just don't add up to a slam. Partner has at most 20 points which with your 11 total just 31. If you had a good five-card diamond suit, you might have been influenced to make a slam try.

Q. 4—As South you hold:
♠Q 4 ♥A J 5 ♦Q J 10 6 3 ♣10 9 6
The bidding has proceeded:

| West | North | East | South |
|---|---|---|---|
| Pass | 1 ♦ | Double | Redou. |
| 1 ♥ | Pass | Pass | ? |

What do you bid now?

A.—One no trump. While you have a satisfactory holding with which to offer partner a raise, there will be opportunity for that action later on should the auction become competitive. But since three no trump appears your best bet for a game contract an immediate effort should be made to tell partner that your hand is primarily a balanced one with fairly scattered values.

Q. 5—As South you hold:
♠K J 9 8 6 5 3 ♥5 ♦K 4 ♣K 10 2
The bidding has proceeded:

| West | North | East | South |
|---|---|---|---|
| Pass | 1 ♦ | 1 ♥ | 1 ♠ |
| 2 ♥ | 3 ♦ | 3 ♥ | ? |

What do you bid now?

A.—Four spades. If you bid just three, partner with some weak spade holding may be forced to pass. His ability to bid freely guarantees enough over-all strength to make game a reasonable undertaking and your spade suit is practically self-sufficient.

HEALTH and HAPPINESS

By DR. SARA JORDAN

Get Enough Rest, Mothers Are Told

This is not an easy era for the young mother of several children. First of all, she has very little or no help to take over the chores of feeding them, washing and cleaning for them as well as managing their behavior and daily routines.

At this point in her young life she should begin to guard her disposition and future happiness by getting enough rest. This often sounds impossible but I know many young women who wisely use the rest periods of their children for a nap for themselves.

The inroad on their nervous systems begins at this point in their lives, and there is a long road ahead. The housewife must not only keep children happy and secure, but there is that very important member of the family, the husband, whose happiness and economic and physical welfare depend on harmony in the home.

The wife and mother is usually the source of that harmony, and, conversely, in her often lies the seat of disharmony. It is she who must repair the damage before it becomes irreversible.

She will often find that she herself has lost patience with husband or children; her perspective is distorted; she expects too much of a tired husband and growing children. Her role of mediator and peacemaker is lost. She may even become the impatient troublemaker, the one who starts the turmoil. And why? Simply because she has accumulated too much nerve fatigue over the months or years.

Later, when the children are grown and perhaps in college it may be too late to completely repair the damage. The home may not be the refuge where problems can be discussed calmly and without temper flare-ups; no one dares to bring up touchy subjects simply because there is a background of remembered scenes.

By that time the wife and mother may have learned the ways of avoiding this devastating fatigue; or she still may not have found out that it was the mismanagement of her own daily routine that brought disaster into the home.

Sometimes advice to seek outside interests as a means for broadening her life has been carried too far. Outside interests are fine, but women in any walk of life should also appreciate the value of the restful interlude. Taut nerves need a quiet room or a sunny porch for a short nap in the midst of the day's work.

Nerves frayed by undiluted tension bring nothing but mental and moral poison into the home.

The qualities of tenderness, understanding and compassion, which should be woman's contributions to the happiness of mankind, must not be imperiled by the poison of fatigue.

(Dr. Jordan cannot undertake to answer personal questions by mail. However, questions of general interest relating to health will be discussed from time to time in this column.)

"The trend in child training has shifted from the 'do not stifle his individuality' of a decade ago. Military discipline, which changed the lives of many young men to advantage, may be in a measure responsible."—Article quote.

A child is like a lump of clay . . . It can be shaped most any way . . . While it is in a plastic state . . . But you can't do it if you wait . . . You cannot press it in a mold . . . When it is toughened, hard and old.

We've never known a woman yet . . . Who was brought up as "mama's pet" . . . And neither have we known a boy . . . Who was his papa's "pride and joy" . . . Who wasn't spoiled to some extent . . . You know; "The way the twig is bent . . . The tree will be inclined" to fall . . . Unless it's straightened when it's small.

Psychologists may tell you that . . . You should be gentle with the brat . . . And children do need love, of course . . . But one must use a little force . . . A little pressure here and there . . . A little love, some work and prayer . . . Unless he wants the child to grow . . . Into a half-baked so-and-so . . . And no one wants his flesh and blood . . . To be a mass of worthless mud.

Dalton's Cheerhaven Brings High Hopes

DALTON—Folks in this northwest Georgia city evidently have a slogan: If It Needs Doing, Do It!

Dalton is not a large city, but it does things heartwise on a large scale. I have written about the Boys' Estate here, designed to help youths before they become charges of the county through delinquency.

Another project is off to a good running start here. Cheerhaven, a school for mentally retarded children now has an enrollment of 10 happy, learning children. Officials here believe that there are some 150 to 200 children in the area needing this special type of training, and, if other drives put on here are any indication, they'll eventually get the training.

As one of the workers at the school put it: "These children are mentally retarded, yes. But that does not mean that they cannot learn. They do learn, but slowly. They laugh and cry, feel, want and love like any other child."

A visit to the school shows 10 children running and playing like any others—and with this big psychological difference: These children now feel as though they belong to something. They are no longer shunted aside as one who cannot keep up. This therapy alone makes the school worth-while.

Officers of the school are Ralph Carroll, president; Mrs. Leonard Larberbaum, executive vice president; Mrs. M. A. Cohen, publicity; Clifford Chastain, treasurer; Mrs. Rose Kerr, secretary; David Blaylock and Tom Pope, fund raisers, and Mrs. Queenie Sims, "trouble shooter." There are 12 board members, half have retarded children, half do not.

The school is nearly a year old now, and is still in the struggling stage. But Dalton will Do It.

Should Have Been a Newsman

Arthur Greenoe should have been a newsman. He's one of those folks who always happen to be at the spot to see unusual things happening. Here are a couple of items he noticed some time ago, but just got around to reporting when we talked on the phone after my hospital stay:

Arthur said he watched some stockade prisoners spading up one of these small, center-of-the-street gardens. They had a can and every wiggly earthworm they uncovered, they popped him in the can.

Where were they going fishing?

And Arthur swears he saw a young couple eating a picnic supper at Piedmont Park. It was dusk-dark, and the young couple had thought of everything. They even had candles!

Your Stars Today

"Health is so necessary to all the duties, as well as pleasures of life, that the crime of squandering it is equal to the folly."

—Johnson.

Daily Guide — The morning hours are fine for shopping, selling, conferences and publicity. In the afternoon things may get a little out of hand if the urge to speed is not checked. The evening is not favorable in general so keep your plans simple. accidents of this type.

Saturn now enters Capricorn, bringing quite different influences from what it had in Sagittarius. In the question of health we may now expect to hear of many more falls, broken bones, and tendencies to bumps and bruises, so take extra care against little Tomorrow the tendency to accidents is especially strong, so be cautious in getting from place to place.

Happy Birthday, Capricorn! This week brings an extra accent on your affairs so be ready by the middle of the week to go into a definite routine, start to budget, and settle down to some hard work ahead in the coming year. It may not be fun, but in the end you will find yourself in a more secure position or even a step up to better circumstances and position. One should not look back to the past; a cycle is finishing for you, so look ahead rather than fear the ending of some things for you. At present you are well supported by friends, but in the early spring should be diplomatic and patient with your mate, partners, associates or competitors. Watch your finances in June; fluctuation of funds continues.

Fulton County Employes Request General Pay Raise and Benefits

Fulton County employes have asked the county commissioners for a general pay increase and additional vacation and longevity pay benefits.

Local No. 313, the employes union, asked the commissioners to grant all employes at least one additional increment in their respective pay scales and to follow a Civil Service Board recommendation that employes with 15 years' service be allowed three weeks of vacation time instead of two.

The longevity pay proposal called for the commissioners to pay employes $10 per month additional, instead of the present $5, in cases where an employe has been at the maximum in his pay range for five years or more without a reclassification.

MOVIE REVIEW

Roz Russell Sparkles As 'Auntie Mame'

By PAUL JONES

If you want to see one of the best movies you ever saw, run, walk or crawl as soon as you are able to the Fox Theater.

There, sprawled on the big screen is a show entitled "Auntie Mame," a show that is so crammed with heart-tugging emotion, good old belly-laughs and downright good entertainment that you'll want to return for a second helping before the picture ends its engagement here.

This is the kind of picture producers dream about. It is the kind of story writers keep on trying to write. And Rosalind Russell's performance is the kind of acting they give Oscars for.

Some time ago, on Broadway, theater-goers were paying as much as $7 a ticket for the privilege of seeing this show. Throughout the country, some 20 "road" versions of the play are still playing to packed houses. The show, on stage, is a masterpiece. But it in no way compares with the flexibility, the color, the pace of the movie—a rare gem in the art of picture making.

"Auntie Mame" isn't actually a story. It is rather a series of character vignettes. But what vignettes! The characters who have been created in this play are the real, honest to goodness type of people you like to read about and see. They are the kind of people who do the human, heart-warming things. They are the sort of people who look like they just stepped out of real life.

Miss Russell is supported by a grand cast. After seeing this film you'll probably be looking for these people in future roles: Peggy Cass, Patrick Knowles, Vera Charles, Fred Clark and Robin Hughes. They are grand in their characterizations.

"OSCAR" CALIBER
Rosalind Russell

If you can picture Rosalind Russell riding a fire-eating nag, side-saddle, in a fox hunt you have some idea of the fun that is inherent in this wonderful movie.

Niven Is Wacky In 'The Silken Affair'

David Niven accounts for another of those whacky romps into the realm of cinema comedy in "The Silken Affair" which is currently showing at the Fine Arts Cinema.

In this picture, Niven is seen as the practical joker, who, tired of his humdrum existence, decides to scramble the books of two hosiery firms—putting one in the red and the other in the black.

As you might suppose, he lets his conscience worry him and he sets out to unravel the mess by stock manipulations. But this only muddies the water even more. He resolves the situation in a finale which will send you home with a grin on your face.

Genevieve Page portrays a French model with the finesse of a French model. Ronald Squire and Howard Marion Crawford are especially suited to their respective parts.

Pilot Safe as Jet Leaves Runway

An Indiana National Guard jet plane left a runway at Dobbins Air Force Base Saturday midnight during a landing in a fog. The plane was damaged but the pilot escaped injury.

The Dobbins public information office identified the pilot as 1st Lt. M. Matter Jr. of the 113th Tactical Fighter Squardon, Indiana National Guard. He was on a flight from Miami back to Indiana.

Co-chairmen of the membership effort are B. W. Alexander, Don Leslie and W. H. (Tubby) Walton.

Division commanders are Peter Jensen, Olen Babb, Ed Adams, Harry Satterwhite, Fleming and Duncan Peek.

Fleming said the 150 membership workers are ready to secure partner-memberships to provide the YMCA program for youngsters in the downtown, southside and northwest area along the Bankhead highway.

This membership provided the Y program in 24 of the elementary schools in this area in 1958 in the Fulton, O'Keefe, Roosevelt and West Fulton high school districts.

Additional partner-memberships to provide the program in three other schools is the goal of the branch for 1959.

More than 2,500 youngsters in the downtown area participated in the Y program last year. This is only one of six other YMCA community branches that will be participating in the Y's annual membership campaign, Fleming pointed out.

"Thanks, America!"

You made it possible...we'll make it memorable!

It's all due to you...and the generations of folks like you... that A&P now celebrates its 100th Birthday. Through the years, the confidence you've placed in us has enabled A&P to become America's favorite food store. We're happy that our concept of public service has measured up to America's expectations.

How best can we show our appreciation to you? Simply in the way we know best: to bring more good food to more people for less money. And we'll do it with a series of special value events all year long... and all dedicated to you.

NOW GOING ON!

A&P inaugurates its 100th Birthday Year with a great "THANKS, AMERICA" Value Festival. Won't you come pay us a visit? You'll find it well worthwhile.

Should the Average Family Put Money Into Stocks?

SHOULD YOU INVEST IN STOCK?

With the new year ahead, a good many people who think in terms of long-range financial planning are asking: Should we start putting money into stock? When is it a wise move? If it is a good idea for us, how do we go about it? This article, first in a series of five, considers when a family should think of buying stock. The next four will go into ways and means.

PART I— HOW MUCH "RISK MONEY" DO YOU HAVE?

Q. I am 35 years old. My wife and I have two children. We're able to save $60 a month. Do you think we should start putting this into stock?

Here's our financial picture: My salary is $8,000 a year. We owe $10,400 on a $15,000 house. Our 1956 car is paid for, and we have $1,000 in a savings and loan association. I carry a $10,000 National Service five-year term insurance policy and a $5,000 family income policy. Mr. F. L., Cincinnati, Ohio.

A. We've passed the outline of your financial position around a small circle of experts—an investment counselor, a businessman and a trust and estate lawyer. Perhaps you'd like to hear what they had to say.

The investment counselor, who makes his own living managing the money of wealthy men, said: "I think Mr. F. L. still has an unfulfilled obligation to his wife and children. He should probably have at least $50,000 to $60,000 of life insurance — say $35,000 more than he has. Next he should build up his savings and loan account to at least $2,000.

"I would tell him, then, to melt his mortgage down to, say, half the market value of his house before he thinks of buying stock."

The businessman said, glancing at your figures:

"I agree with the investment counselor — Mr. F. L. needs more insurance. But first he should get some kind of health insurance. Then I would tell him to buy a $10,000, 15-year term insurance policy. As soon as he can carry any more overhead, he should consider converting the term insurance he has to ordinary insurance. The cash values he would build up would begin a retirement program.

"Next he should try to put away at least $10,000 in cash savings. He needs liquid assets —for an emergency or an opportunity. Then when he has all this and his salary is in the five-figure class, he might begin to invest in stock."

The trust and estate lawyer pointed out:

"Since no one knows how much inflation or deflation is ahead, a balance between fixed investments or dollar assets, and equities, is important. A balanced investment program would put not less than 65 per cent of Mr. F. L.'s annual savings into fixed-dollar assets, such as insurance, bank accounts or government bonds— and the rest in equities, a home, or common stock.

"His emphasis now should be on insurance and paying off his mortgage. But he might want to invest in common stock rather than pay that mortgage off."

SHE HELPS THE MAYOR
Mrs. W. B. Wood Is Secretary

Phone Plays Major Role With Mayor's Secretary

By HARRIETT S. WEINSTEIN

The mayor's secretary switched from airline work to city government 10 years ago and has been there ever since.

"I've never been the kind of person who loved to travel," smiled Mrs. W. B. (Clancie) Wood, secretary to Mayor William B. Hartsfield in Atlanta. "I'm happy with just a trip to the beach at vacation time."

Most of her traveling consists of commuting from her home in Henry County near McDonough to Atlanta's city hall and back each day.

Mrs. Wood started her secretarial career after business college by going to work in a small airline office.

BIG CHANGE

"We only had one or two others in the office then. So it was a big change to go to work for the comptrollers office of the city with all those people."

And later, when the mayor's secretary decided to get married, Mrs. Wood was "the lucky one who got the job."

Now, after 10 years in the mayor's office, Mrs. Wood finds her biggest job is acting as a "go-between for the mayor and his visitors. People call the mayor when things don't suit them. And it is my job to make them understand.

"And though I wouldn't say the phone is a major part of my day, it is a big part."

People call up to ask the mayor to do and undo many things.

GARBAGE HEADACHE

The biggest number of calls to the mayor ask him to do something about collecting their garbage.

"I usually ask them if they have reported it to the sanitation department. If they say they have, I take down the information and check to make sure something has been done," said Mrs. Wood.

"We're liable to get calls about anything though — from traffic tickets to water bills."

So it is important that Mrs. Wood is not only familiar with the offices and personnel of the city government but also familiar with what projects come under county or state consideration.

Another important requirement in working for a public official is "a sense of humor," laughed Mrs. Wood. "You can save yourself some hurt feelings if you can laugh."

COUNTS ACCURACY

On the ability side of the ledger, Mrs. Wood counts accuracy of more worth with most employers than top speed, "though that would depend on the employer," she added.

Dependability and conscientious work plus the ability to get along well with others are also requisites in working for a public official, said Mrs. Wood.

"Practically the same things make up a good boss," she said. "Of course, they also need to know what they are doing so they can direct others and they need to be considerate."

Commuting every day doesn't leave her much time for hobbies, though she manages to get in some bowling and a good bit of church work.

"And I love to collect cook books and recipes, though I never get time to try them out," she laughed.

Miss Whitmore Is Bride Of Howard Langford

Though their wedding was previously scheduled for an early spring ceremony, Gail Aileen Whitmore and Howard Arthur Langford changed their plans and were quietly married on Saturday afternoon.

The Rev. Allen A. Phillips read the nuptial service at Wesley Memorial Methodist Church, after which Mr. and Mrs. Stephen B. Whitmore entertained at a family dinner at the Lighthouse.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. Whitmore and of Mrs. Charles Spillman of N. Miami Beach who came to Atlanta for the wedding. The bridegroom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. George R. Langford of Union Point and Jefferson.

Mr. and Mrs. Daniel A. Shirley of Atlanta attended the couple as best man and matron of honor.

Mr. Langford is now attending Georgia Tech where he is a senior in industrial management. His bride attended the University of Miami and is now associated with the film department of radio station WLWA.

Altar Society Schedules Meetings

The Altar Society of the Cathedral of Christ the King is busily scheduling a series of interesting meetings for the coming year.

The January meeting will be held at 1:30 p.m. on Monday in the grade school auditorium. The slate of officers for the new year will be submitted by the nominating committee.

Immediately following the meeting a tea will be held in the rectory in honor of the new officers. Mrs. Frank A. Duffy, retiring president of the society, will pour, and all women of the parish are invited.

Moonflower Club

Mrs. Strickland Corbitt will entertain the Moonflower Garden Club on Tuesday, Jan. 6, at her home, 136 Mobile Ave., NE. Mrs. Aneilda Davis, the president will preside and Mrs. Louise Doak will speak on "Corsage Making."

TOBE SAYS

A Print Dress Is a 'Must'

Whether or not you are heading south, a silk print dress is almost a "must" for everyone at this time of year. You need it to liven up your winter wardrobe at home and it's certainly indispensable for holidays in the sun.

I suggest choosing a soft, simple afternoon-type of dress in vivid colors that you may wear for late-day parties in the north, and for everything in the south. Newest and prettiest colors in prints this year are the turquoise blues, the deep yellows, all shades of violet and the smart new chartreuse greens.

Takes Courage To Teach

The teaching profession has been getting such a going over in recent years it must take a young man or woman of special courage to elect to spend his days in a schoolroom wrestling with the recalcitrant minds of the young.

Before the very existence of public schools was threatened, the teacher, who used to be the wise man in any community, had lost some of his prestige. Here lately he has emerged as a young person of mediocre mentality who took crib courses in college that he might teach crib courses to those who come after him.

Those of us who grew up looking to the teacher as the fount of all wisdom have been shaken by this trend of events. We like the teacher, like the minister and the family doctor, to be infallible. For that reason I have been comforted lately by a communication from an old hand at the teaching business.

Dr. J. W. Sharp, now dean of Brenau College, wrote apropos of a column I had a day or so before Christmas about the late mountain poet, Byron Herbert Reece. Dr. Sharp was remembering Byron's student days at Young Harris but he incidentally—and probably involuntarily—presented a picture of Byron's teacher which was pleasant to behold.

Dr. Sharp said Byron, "living in a world of his own," was undoubtedly "bored to distraction by the prosaic lectures and recitations of a 'required' course in the political history of England."

"I was occasionally able to awaken a very real response in him when I would digress from the facts (a temptation to which I fear I yielded much too often) in order to pick up a few ballads or such magnificent trivia from the heritage which is ours. Then his answers to questions would take on the form of a sort of extemporaneous poesy, holding me and the rest of the class spellbound until he had finished giving form to the fantasy that obsessed him. At other times he would sleep blissfully through my monotonous discussions and I was always careful not to disturb him. Of all men I knew he needed less to be plagued with the rigours of the Third Crusade and more to be aroused by Blondel and Robin Hood."

Dr. Sharp said he knew Byron "under more natural circumstances" as a member of the Quill Club, which published a small paperback book of verse. Oddly enough the original Quill Club anthology, published in 1939, includes but three poems by Byron and a great many more by other students. (Philip Greear of Helen had 14.) Still membership in this group must have meant a great deal to young Reece.

"We met regularly in a small cabin in the woods belonging to Prof. Willis Lufkin Dance, the most wonderful and natural teacher I have ever known," Dr. Sharp recalled. "It was Mr. Dance who gave to Byron the release he needed so that his infinitely fine mind could range at will and pour itself out in song of sometimes ineffable sweetness."

I read through the small brochure with pleasure. (It was dedicated to Dr. Sharp's mother, Mrs. Joseph Astor Sharp.)

Young American Women Dominate 'Best-Dressed'

The annual list of the world's best-dressed women was issued today by the Couture Group of the New York Dress Institute. At the same time, eight women of "unchallenged style leadership" were designated to a newly created Fashion Hall of Fame."

The best-dressed women of 1958 were selected by written ballots distributed to 2,500 fashion experts and observers throughout the world. Tied for first place are Mrs. Winston Guest, New York and Palm Beach, and Countess Rodolfo Crespi, the former Consuelo O'Connor of Rome.

Others named are Mrs. Henry Ford II, Grosse Point, Mich., and New York; Princess Margaret Rose of Great Britain; the Countess of Quintanilla, Madrid; Mme. Arturo Lopez-Willshaw, Paris; Mrs. William Randolph Hearst Jr., New York; Kay Kendall, London, and Mrs. Thomas Bancroft Jr., New York, tied for seventh place; Mrs. Norman K. Winston, New York and Paris; Audrey Hepburn, Mrs. Stanley Rumbough Jr., New York; Mrs. David K. Bruce and Merle Oberon.

PERMANENT LIST

The eight elevated to the new, permanent Hall of Fame category because their "faultless taste in dress, without ostentation or extravagance, places them above annual comparison" are: The Duchess of Windsor, Mrs. William Paley, Countess Edward Von Bismarck, Queen Elizabeth II, Mme. Jacques Balsan, Mary Martin, Irene Dunne and Claudette Colbert.

The dominance of young women, particularly young American women, on the list, a trend cited a year ago by the Couture Group, conclusively cancels the old style maxim that a woman doesn't learn to dress well until she is 35 or over, according to Eleanor Lambert, director of the Couture Group and its spokesman in announcing the results of the poll. This year more than two-thirds of the women on both annual lists were well below middle age, she stated, and virtually all of these are intensely active in a career or in causes far removed from being known as a "clothes horse."

NOTED SPORTSWOMAN

Mrs. Guest is a noted sportswoman, Mrs. Ford a prominent art collector. Mrs. Winston and Mrs. Bruce are well known as hostesses for their diplomat husbands while Kay Kendall, Audrey Hepburn and Merle Oberon give all or most of their time to their careers.

Twelve women whose impeccable personal taste brought them votes enough to be on the final list, but whose affiliation with the fashion industries gives them "professional" status, were cited in a supplementary list this year. They are: Sophie Gimbel, Simonetta Fabiani, Gabrielle Chanel, Pauline Trigere, Carmel Snow, Enid Haupt, Sybil Connolly, Mrs. Gilbert Adrian, Mrs. Stanley Marcus, Mrs. Leon Mandel, Mrs. Tom May and Mme. Helene Arpels.

Miss Corley Marries Mr. Clark

St. Paul's Methodist Church in Augusta formed the setting for the marriage on Friday evening of Miss Mary Carolyn Corley, daughter of the Samuel R. Corleys of Orangeburg, S.C., to Carey Alexander Clark Jr., son of Lt. Col. and Mrs. Carey A. Clark of Fort McPherson.

The bride's pastor, Dr. J. Carlisle Smiley, officiated at the service which was followed by a reception given by Mr. and Mrs. Corley at Wannamaker Hall.

Serving as usher-groomsmen were Wayne Corley of Lexington, S.C.; R. H. Holstein Jr. of Batesburg, S.C.; A. A. Hutchinson of Winston-Salem, Don R. Moore of North Wilkesboro, N.C.; Randolph Maddux Jr. and Stewart Tugman, both of Boone, N.C. Senior ushers were C. O. Linville of Atlanta and Dr. F. G. Eldridge of Valdosta.

The bridegroom's sister, Mrs. C. O. Linnville, was the bride's matron of honor and Eleanor Corley served as maid of honor for her sister. Bridesmaids were Mrs. H. S. Callaham of Lexington, S.C.; Peggy Willis of North Charleston, S.C.; Mrs. Stanley C. Bond of Beaufort, S.C., and Mrs. Fletcher C. Derrick Jr. of Columbus.

WED IN AUGUSTA
Mrs. C. A. Clark Jr.

The bridegroom's small niece, Melissa Linnville, was flower girl. His father, Col. Clark, was his best man.

Mr. Corley gave his daughter in marriage. She chose a silk tissue taffeta gown trimmed in Alencon lace embroidered in seed pearls and iridescents. Her veil fell from a lace crown encrusted with pearls and iridescents, and she carried a Book of Proverbs belonging to her maternal great-grandmother.

A COFFEE CAKE WITH APPLE TOPPING THAT'S NEW
This Bread Is Made of Yeast, But Needs No Kneading

Time Is Perfect Now For New Spicy Apple

By VIRGINIA DYSARD KEZIAH
Constitution Food Editor

Sure, it's not a necessity, but it is fun to have something new and special to serve for a group or committee meeting at your house. Spicy apple is in the title of both recipes suggested here. Since apples are in season now and there is a variety of them, this is the perfect time to try a delicious recipe.

One is a spicy apple kuchen, a yeast coffee cake that takes not one bit of kneading. The other is spicy apple twists, which were the grand prize winner of 25,000 dollars in the Pillsbury Bake Off.

To make the apple kuchen you put a mixture of sugar and spice in the bottom of two baking pans and arrange canned or cooked apple slices in rows. The batter goes on top of this and after baking the kuchen is turned out so the apples emerge on top, spice-sprinkled and glistening.

Even though this is a yeast bread, there's no need for scalding the milk. Evaporated milk is used in the recipe, so the scalding step is eliminated.

The spicy kuchen is best served while still warm, luscious with butter melting into it and a cup of hot coffee to sip along with it.

SPICY APPLE TWISTS

2 baking apples, pared, cored and sliced into eight wedges
1½ cups sifted all purpose flour
1 tsp. salt
½ cup shortening
4 to 5 tblsps. cold water
⅓ cup melted butter
½ cup sugar
1 tsp. cinnamon

Prepare apples. Sift flour with salt into mixing bowl. Cut in shortening. Sprinkle cold water over mixture stirring with fork until dough is just moist enough to hold together. Form into ball. Flatten to about ½-inch thickness; smooth edges.

Roll out on floured surface to 16x10-inch rectangle. Cut into sixteen 10x1 inch strips. Wrap one around each apple slice. Arrange in 13x9x2-inch pan, sides not touching. Brush with butter; sprinkle with mixture of sugar and cinnamon. Pour ½ cup water over pastries. Bake in hot oven (450 degrees) 25 to 30 minutes until golden brown. Serve warm or cold, plain or with cream. Makes 16.

SPICY APPLE KUCHEN

⅓ cup butter, softened
½ tsp. salt
½ cup boiling water
¾ cup evaporated milk
1 pkg. dry granular yeast
¼ cup warm water
2 eggs, beaten
3 cups sifted flour
2 cans sliced apples (1 lb. 4 oz. each)
½ cup sugar
2 tsps. apple pie spice

Mix the ⅓ cup sugar, butter and salt in a large mixing bowl. Add boiling water and stir until butter is melted. Add evaporated milk. Sprinkle yeast on warm water and stir until dissolved. Add to first mixture. Then stir in eggs. Add the flour, a cup at a time, beating until fairly smooth after each addition. Cover and let rise until double in bulk, about 1 hour. Meanwhile butter two baking pans, 9¾x6½x1¾ inches. Mix the ½ cup sugar with the apple pie spice. Sprinkle half of this mixture in bottom of each buttered pan. Drain apples, saving syrup for some other use. Arrange apple slices in rows on top of sugar mixture in each pan. Beat batter down and turn half into each of the prepared pans, spreading batter evenly over apples. Bake immediately in preheated moderately hot oven (375 degrees) for 10 minutes, then reduce heat to moderately slow oven (325 degrees) and continue baking 20 minutes. Turn out on cooling racks immediately. Makes 2 coffee cakes.

Miss Cohen Is Wed to Mr. Minsk

Mr. and Mrs. Abe Cohen announce the marriage of their daughter, Mildred Ann Cohen, to Harvey Edward Minsk, son of Mr. and Mrs. Louis Minsk, which took place on Sunday at her parents' home. Rabbi Jacob M. Rothschild was the officiant.

The bride, given in marriage by her father, wore a waltz-length gown of peau de soie and Alencon lace embroidered in seed pearls. A cap of matching lace and pearls held her veil in place, and she carried a bouquet of white orchids, stephanotis and valley lilies.

Mr. Minsk chose his father as his best man. The bride was attended by her sisters, Janet and Barbara Cohen.

A champagne breakfast followed the ceremony at the Cohen home.

Chemise Blouse For Blue Jeans

The blue jean gets a new look with a chemise blouse. It is cut like an old-fashioned bathing suit, comes in blue denim in sizes for teen-agers to mothers.

Susanne Nichols, a mother from Connecticut, designed the blouse to wear with jeans or wrap-around denim skirts, which come lined in provincial print denim.

Philomatheans Become Phi Mu

The Philomathean Club of Emory University will be formally pledged to the Phi Mu Fraternity at 6 p.m. on Tuesday, Jan. 6, at the Alumni Memorial Building on the Emory campus.

Mrs. L. C. McGarity of Monroe, the district president, will conduct the pledge service, assisted by Miss Elizabeth de Beaugrine, president of Alpha Alpha chapter at the University of Georgia, and other members of that chapter.

The Philomathean Club will become Alpha Phi chapter of Pi Mu at the May installation of national sororities on the Emory campus.

Preceding the pledge service, the Atlanta alumnae of Phi Mu will honor the Emory group with a banquet. Special guests will be Miss Nina Rusk, dean of women, and Miss Bette Brewin, district alumnae director.

Mrs. Arthur Burdett Jr. is taking reservations for the banquet and pledge service, to which all Atlanta alumnae are invited.

It's Convenient to Pay Your Taxes by Money Order

Service Now Available to Ga. Merchants

It is estimated that one out of three people will use money orders to pay both State and Federal income taxes in 1959, and therefore, merchants who offer Armored Express Money Orders can expect increased store traffic between now and April 15.

Under the Armored Express plan merchants may issue money orders in any amount from one cent to $150 in only a few seconds. Merchants particularly like this added customer service because the cash drawer and check protector measures only 14"x12".

Armored Express Money Order rates are competitive and merchants receive 40 per cent of the fees charged as their sales commission. Rates are as follows:

|---|---|
| $ .01 to $ 5.00 | 15c |
| $ 5.01 to $ 10.00 | 20c |
| $ 10.01 to $100.00 | 30c |

and Armored Express Money Orders are now being sold in Atlanta, Dalton, Commerce, Newnan, Griffin, Forest Park, Villa Rica, Carrollton, Bremen, Norcross, Mableton, Marietta, and Smyrna.

State-wide service is available, Any merchant who would like to take advantage of this new idea, increase store traffic and make a profit should contact James H. Franklin Jr., at Armored Express Money Order, Inc., 41 Kimball Way, SW, Atlanta, or phone JA. 5-0716.

WAYS TO INCREASE CUSTOMER SERVICE!

Atlanta Envelope Company Introduces New Products

Salesmen from all sections of the Southeast recently participated in a sales meeting of the Atlanta Envelope Company and affiliated plants, manufacturers of business envelopes.

The company's sales meeting is an annual event, primarily for the purpose of keeping its sales specialists up to date on product uses, new developments, and ways of increasing service to the customer.

At the meeting, many new products and their uses were introduced. One AECO branch plant is now producing polyethylene bags for packaging all types of products and materials. Atlanta Envelope salesmen now have a complete line of polyethylene materials. Businessmen with packaging problems are invited to call an AECO representative for samples and suggestions.

One of the new products revealed at the meeting is Latex gumming. By applying two matched strips of Latex gum to the seal flap and back of an envelope, it is now possible to obtain instant sealing without moisture.

Envelope specialists heard Nathan "Flip" Kahn, Sales Supervisor, tell of many ways that Latex gum is being used. Bulky, odd size enclosures are especially adaptable to Latex gumming, Mr. Kahn explained, because the seal is immediate; therefore, flaps do not have a tendency to pop open before the gum has time to set. Insurance companies and other businesses with mail deadlines to meet have found Latex gumming has the speed to combat peak-hour mailroom problems.

Salesmen were told of new equipment that has been installed in the Atlanta plant during the past year. Fred Cogswell, Manager of the Sales Department, explained a new high-speed envelope folding machine; a paraffine machine to waterproof envelopes; and a precision three-color printing press for printing large catalog style envelopes. Mr. Cogswell explained that much of AECO's equipment is exclusive in this area, with no other plants operating similar machines.

AECO has pioneered many developments which have later been adopted as standard equipment by other manufacturers. Mr. Cogswell summarized by saying "the company believes only the best equipment, properly maintained, can give the quality production demanded by AECO customers."

During the past year increased postal rates and changed regulations have become of great importance to businessmen who are heavy users of the mails. At the AECO sales meeting, salesmen were tested on the new regulations and certified as experts in this field.

Sig Guthman, executive assistant, is an expert on postal regulations and is responsible for preparing AECO's valuable postal chart. It has become a comforting aid to many mail clerks and businessmen.

You are invited to write Atlanta Envelope Co., P.O. box 1267, Atlanta 1, Ga., for a free copy of this useful guide, and to consult with an AECO specialist on the ways to reduce your mailing costs.

Since the founding of the Atlanta Envelope Co. in 1893 as Atlanta's first envelope plant, the company has grown with the city. Today it occupies America's most modern envelope plant located at 1700 Northside Dr., NW. The AECO family has now grown to four plants and today constitutes the South's largest envelope manufacturing group.

Call TR. 6-3686 for your envelope needs, whether large or small. Take advantage of the service provided by Atlanta Envelope's trained envelope specialists.

'Dixie Ray' Electric Heat Panel Hangs on the Wall!

Now anyone can install a handsome, modern, electric glass panel flat on the surface of the wall—just about as easily as banging a picture!

Dixie RAYdiant Electric Heat Corp., whose home offices are Atlanta, Ga., are manufacturing a revolutionary panel designed expressly for the rapidly growing "do-it-yourself" market. It is so neat and simple to install that it may well make museum pieces out of roof-marring vents and flues. Moreover, no ducts have to be run, and the wall is not opened or damaged in any way. And yet this attractive glass panel protrudes only 2½ inches from the wall and can be hung wherever there is 22"x28" of unoccupied wall surface.

The 10' extension cord with which this 115-volt glass panel is equipped means that it can be located just about anywhere in the room. Since it is only 1,000 watts, it can be plugged into any existing 115-volt outlet which is not already loaded with heavy appliances.

Though the panel literally hangs on the wall like a picture, it gives the appearance of being permanently installed, for it rests securely and perfectly flat against the wall just like the permanently installed Dixie Ray glass panels which Dixie Ray and its dealers have installed throughout the South in thousands of motels, offices and homes. Thus everyone can now enjoy a thermostatically controlled glass wall panel which they themselves can easily install simply by mounting two small screws onto the wall. This panel model has two keyhole slots on the rear, and the panel is simply hung on the wall surface on these two screws, which are provided with the panel.

The panel is perfect for the apartment dweller or office tenant who wants a fine, comfortable, clean, thermostatically controlled heat with all the advantages of a permanent installation. Like his pictures and his furniture, he can at any time in the future take this panel along to a new location, since it can be lifted instantly off of the wall.

The panel has a sensitive built-in thermostat so that any desired temperature can be selected. And the panel can be turned off completely when no heat is needed. This makes the panel perfect for supplementing insufficient heat in any room, or as the sole heat source in a small insulated room or any bathroom.

Consequently, there is no overheating and no waste of electric current. Operating costs are surprisingly reasonable with Dixie Ray glass panels. This is proven conclusively by the numerous satisfied motels, offices and homes completely heated with Dixie Ray panels in Atlanta, Savannah, Columbia, Birmingham, Jackson, Miss., and in much colder regions such as Portland, Ore.; Seattle, Detroit, Salt Lake City, etc.

This panel that is so simple to hang on the wall can be used also as a portable where there are several rooms that need added heat at different times. Dixie RAYdiant supplies a neat wrought-iron stand on which this panel can be placed. Then the panel, which weighs only 20 pounds, is easily moved from room to room, stands securely on the floor and with its 10' cord can be located anywhere that extra radiant floor-warming heat is needed.

It is also available in 230 volts with a three-prong cord to use where there is already a 230-volt room air conditioner outlet.

This panel, as well as the base-board and ceiling panels, may be seen at the showrooms of Dixie RAYdiant Electric Heat Corp. at 66 11 St., NE (between the Peachtrees) where there is adequate private parking. Telephone TRinity 2-2283.

Gaston Inc. Tells How to Get Better Color Pictures

THE SPACIOUS QUARTERS of Riddick Sales Co., located at 1030 Marietta St., NW, is the result of selling quality materials and workmanship over a period of many years. Dunlops distributor in this area, Riddick serves some 400 dealers in Georgia and parts of Alabama, Tennessee and the Carolinas. Call TRinity 6-1012 for experienced service.

RIDDICK SALES CO. OFFERS:

Quality 'Dunlop' Tires, Fast Recapping Service

"If it's tires you need — new, used or if your present tires need recapping—we can take care of practically any size for passenger car or truck," says Sam B. Riddick, head of Riddick Sales Co., located at 1030 Marietta St., NW.

This well-known local concern serves some 400 dealers in Georgia and parts of Alabama, Tennessee and the Carolinas. Operating one of the most modern tire retreading plants in this area, Riddick Sales Co. also distributes famous Dunlop tires and does a bustling business in used tires, both for treading and for resale.

Newest in the Dunlop line is the Gold Seal tire, "designed especially for high-horsepowered automobiles," stated Mr. Carl Jenkins, Southeastern Division manager for Dunlop. "For a short period of time, the automobile industry got ahead of the tire industry and consequently, motorists were not satisfied with the amount of wear they were getting from their tires.

"As a result, Dunlop developed the Gold Seal tire, which is commonly referred to as a 'semi-racing' tire. The Gold Seal actually has a seven-rib tread, but while cruising, the tire automatically becomes a five-rib tire. Added mileage and increased safety are top features of this new tire, for on turns, curves, starting or stopping the Gold Seal becomes a seven-rib tire," Mr. Jenkins continued.

"In our estimation, the Gold Seal is the finest tire on the market, and we are proud to have such firms as Riddick Sales Co., distributing this and all other top-quality Dunlop products."

Riddick's stock of used tires is probably one of the most extensive in Georgia, and they are featured at big savings to dealers.

Constantly adding new equipment, Riddick Sales Co. maintains more than 30 Lodi tire-recapping steam-type molds in their shops, and can give one-day service on just about any job. The firm caps all size passenger tires and truck tire sizes up to and including the giant 16.00x20 sizes. Riddick's shops handle all grade tires, recapping them for longer wear and service.

In addition to the Dunlop tubeless tires for passenger cars, Riddick features new Dunlop tubeless tires for trucks. Built to rigid specifications and guaranteed for longer mileage, these Dunlop tires are recognized for their premium quality and excellence of workmanship.

Riddick Sales Co. maintains a staff of outside salesmen who call on dealers and fleet operators throughout the state. Two inside salesmen take care of orders at the plant. For recapping service, or for passenger and truck tires, new or used, call TR. 6-1012, or visit the Riddick Sales Co. plant at 1030 Marietta St., NW.

Firm's Lab Chief Latimer Gives Advice on Color

Shooting eye-stopping color pictures is a cinch today, so long as you take your time, follow the simple directions that come with the film, and take a few precautions.

Go by the rules and you're liable to wind up with shots like those magazine ads you see. So says Bob Latimer, head of Gaston's color processing department, one of the busiest and most productive places in town these days.

What are some of the things that make for better color shots? Mr. Latimer relates some of these timely tips:

When taking pictures outdoors—black and white as well as color, don't try to get too much into the picture. If you want to get a good color shot of the kids, move in close and shoot. If you want to get the whole house into the act, then move back and get it. But don't try to combine the two, get one or the other.

If you're taking color pictures inside, keep the background as simple as possible so that it won't distract from your subject. Another thing, if you have to move close for flash pictures (within five or six feet), put a handkerchief over the flash reflector to cut down the intensity of light. That will help keep the flesh tones, yet avoid the Dracula look.

Check the batteries in that flash gun whenever you use it! A lot of folks use their cameras two or three times a year, and forget them. And just because the flash goes off, doesn't mean you're talking flash pictures — weak batteries may upset the coordination between the shutter and the flash.

Check the lens before you use it. Youngsters have a way of getting fingerprints all over it. They don't look good on film.

Watch where you keep your film. Your car glove compartment can heat up to 140 degrees or so, and that will affect the color in the roll. A drawer at home with a mildew preventative in it will also mess up the color.

Mr. Latimer explained further that there is some confusion over the different types of color film.

BOB LATIMER
Gaston Color Chief

Actually, though, color film breaks down into just two classifications. The first is chrome-type film, which includes Kodachrome, Ektachrome and Anscochrome. These are primarily slide type films.

The second type is Kodacolor. This is a color negative film used where color prints are desired.

In other words, if you want to throw your color pictures on a screen or your wall with a slide projector, get a chrome-type film. If you want color prints to put in the family scrapbook, get Kodacolor. You can get prints, of course, from the slides, but it is far more economical to use Kodacolor for this purpose.

Mr. Latimer's firm, Gaston Photo Service, Inc., has one of the finest color processing plants in this section of the country. They use Eastman Kodak equipment for producing Type C (Kodacolor-type) prints. Their quality control laboratory is closely coordinated with the processing, so that their color work consistently maintains the highest standards of excellence. Maybe that's why Gaston is the largest in the South.

Any questions on color? Call Bob Latimer at TRinity 5-7867. He'll be glad to give you the answers. And being the man in charge of processing thousands of color slides and prints every day, he ought to know.

Steel Output Jumps; Big Year Predicted

30 Pct. Rise Over '58 Seen; Vital Union Talks Expected

CLEVELAND (AP)—The steel industry got off to a good start last week on a predicted 110-million-ton production year, up 30 per cent from 1958's 85-million-ton output.

Steel Magazine reported that production climbed 6 points last week to 75 per cent of the 1958 rated capacity. Production during the last three days of December and the first four days of January was estimated at 1,943,000 net tons.

The metal working weekly said 1959 will be an eventful year for the steel industry. It looks for a widespread reversal of inventory policy with consumers adding 4 million tons to their stockpiles before July. Current inventories are pegged at 14 million tons.

"There will be explosive contract talks between the industry and the United Steelworkers," the publication said. "Chances are that agreement on a new pact won't be reached before the old one expires June 30. But it doesn't mean there will be a strike immediately. An extension or two probably will be agreed upon."

The magazine made these observations:

"No steel shortages are looked for, unless consumers panic.

"Stable prices are expected through the first half. If the USW wins a costly package, base prices may go up sharply in late summer.

"Also in store is greater consumption by the automotive, construction, petroleum, machinery, farm implement, railroad, appliance and container industries."

The magazine's price composite on steelmaking scrap metal held even at $39.66 a gross ton. Scrapmen are hoping that rising steel operations will put new strength into the market.

Bowaters Newsprint Hits Millionth Ton

CALHOUN, Tenn. (AP) — The Bowaters Southern Paper Corp. mill here has produced its millionth ton of newsprint, four and a half years after the big plant went into operation.

The company reported its historic ton was produced shortly after the mill's fourth paper machine was started up. The fourth machine, the company said, is designed to operate at speeds up to 3,000 feet per minute, "a newsprint production record never yet achieved."

The firm claimed, in the year-end report, that its No. 3 paper machine had established a world speed record, during an experimental run, of 2,510 per feet minute. Newsprint capacity at the Calhoun mill is now 430,000 tons annually compared to an original capacity of 130,000 tons, the report added.

Rivals' Cuts Boost L.I. Passengers

NEW YORK (AP)—The Long Island Railroad, which runs more passenger trains than any other railroad, has found good fortune in the current cutback in passenger service by other roads.

Thomas Goodfellow, president of the Long Island, said Friday the line purchased 30 streamlined, lightweight, air-conditioned cars from the Boston & Maine. The B&M has a surplus of cars.

"Reductions in passenger service by other railroads have given us a chance to pick and choose among surplus cars at supermarket prices," Goodfellow said.

The cars are being run through the Long Island's shops for installation of new diesel-driven individual power plants.

Well-Fed Police Find Their Cook Is Thief

LONDON (UPI) —For months, policemen at the East London Aldgate precinct station boasted about the prowess of their cook, Mrs. Violet Round. Their faces were red Sunday after Mrs. Round was disclosed in court to be Mrs. Violet Matthews, a convicted thief who had served three jail terms.

Callas Dickers With Venice

VENICE, Italy (UPI) —Tempestuous soprano Maria Meneghini Callas, exiled from Rome and Milan stages, may break her Italian "quarantine" by singing here, opera sources said Sunday.

The sources said negotiations were underway for the Brooklyn-born soprano to sing in a series of "extraordinary performances" at Venice's La Fenice Opera House during the current season.

Old Spirit of Self-Reliance Is No Longer Fashionable

NEW YORK—Private enterprise ain't what it used to be. The old spirit of self-reliance is no longer fashionable. Instead of championing a hands-off policy, farmers demand subsidies, small business keeps pushing for special tax treatment, the building industry asks for government aid to boost construction, and numerous other industries insist upon special help through stockpiling and other methods. It all tends to shift power and responsibility from business to government.

Rings Cheerful Bell

The recent American Tel. & Tel. action for a 3-for-1 share split plus a 10 per cent dividend rang a cheerful bell with mutual investment funds—almost all of them own substantial blocks of A. T. & T. stock. In fact, a major part of the asset value growth of mutual funds last year is traced to the market jump in their A. T. & T. holdings.

Strong Currencies

There's more to the European currencies convertibility than the news tells. Behind-scenes knowledge is that foreign governments show confidence that their currencies are as strong or stronger than the United States dollar. Foreign businessmen are of that opinion. A little less than two weeks ago William McC. Martin, chairman of the Federal Reserve Board, said: "An important segment of world opinion has begun to question the monetary integrity of our American dollar." In other words, inflation is taking its toll in dollar-value depreciation.

On Ike's Budget

Overheard—apropos of President Eisenhower's planned 1959-60 budget: "Sounds good, but the results are dubious" and "His move for extra revenue is either shrewd politics, or outright wishful thinking."

Strongest Period

Says the stock exchange house of Arthur Wiesenberger & Co., specialists in investment funds: The period from mid-December to early January is normally the strongest of the year because of large dividend and interest payments seeking investment. It may be a temporary sustaining force to stock prices; but the risks the market has accumulated over the past year are unlikely to be dissipated in a matter of days or weeks.

And this, from the wire house of E. F. Hutton: Most people who follow the market have a maximum of stocks, especially those moving up quickly; a considerable price setback could develop at any time on some unexpected adverse news development.

Any Applicants?

Wanted: A know-how publicity firm to handle the job of getting people in the United States to welcome the visit early in January of Communist Russia Deputy Premier Anastas Mikoyan—right arm of Communist Boss Nikita Khrushchev. Applicants should apply directly to Boris Kryloy, cultural attache of the Soviet Embassy in Washington. The fee will be large, payable in American dollars, and might even include a free membership in the Communist party.

Why 'Investor'?

There's no intent to start a controversy pro and con securities trading. Nor is an attempt being made to change the quirk of those who enjoy securities speculation. But why the misnomer of "investor" when everyone knows these people are in the market "gambling" for a quick-profit killing?

Bishop Says Church Lagged And NAACP Took Up Fight

By CLAUDE GEORGE SR.

The NAACP has assumed the lead role in the fight for civil rights because the Negro churches have lagged behind, Bishop Peter Randolph Shy said in Atlanta recently.

Speaking at the 96th anniversary of the Emancipation Proclamation, Bishop Shy said the separate but equal system did not work because "equal justice of the law was not meted out to the Negro."

He said the separate but equal doctrine established a system of inferiority and superiority.

Commenting on the present segregation-desegregation struggle in the South, Bishop Shy said:

"I do not believe that Negroes want racial strife and they do not aim to work in opposition to American democracy."

Bishop Shy said it wasn't the Negro's purpose to close the doors of public schools but to try to open the school doors wider in order to "bring the American education system up to par."

He called on his audience to take a stand for civil rights for "all people regardless of race or creed."

Bishop Shy is prelate of the Christian Episcopal Methodist Church in Georgia.

Marriage Institute

Three guest lecturer-consultants have been announced for the forthcoming annual institute on Successful Marriage Life to be held at Morehouse College in March.

They are Dr. Otto Klineberg, professor of psychology, Columbia University; Dr. Florence Clothier, assistant to the president, Vassar College, and Miss Naomi J. Thomas, field consultant of the Planned Parenthood Federation of America, Inc.

W. E. Lankford Is Promoted at Emory Hospital

Will E. Lankford has been appointed assistant administrator of the Emory University Hospital, according to Burwell W. Humphrey, administrator.

The position will include responsibility for medical records, pharmacy, laboratory and departments of physical medicine and anesthesia.

Humphrey also announced that the division of patient affairs of the hospital, formerly directed by Lankford, will be combined with the business office and placed under the supervision of William E. Shirey, who will be assisted by Charles Sweat.

Lankford is an Emory graduate, and has served Emory in various capacities for the past nine years—the last five in the hospital. In addition to his official duties, he is currently engaged in a course of study directed toward a master's degree from the Emory business school.

Lewis M. Dugger Dies; Was Coca-Cola Executive

Lewis M. Dugger, 62, vice president in charge of the market research department of the Coca-Cola Company, died unexpectedly Sunday at his home, 1175 W. Brookhaven Dr., NE.

A lifelong Atlanta resident, Mr. Dugger joined the beverage firm in 1923, creating the company's statistical department the following year. The present market research department grew out of the statistical department. He was elected vice president in 1956.

Hartsfield To Appoint Committees

Mayor Hartsfield will deliver his annual address and appoint committees at the reorganization meeting of the aldermanic board at 3 p.m. Monday at the city hall.

The mayor indicated his message will be brief and only a few changes in committee assignments will be made.

He said that he would discuss future problems of the city, but definitely will not touch upon expected federal court orders to integrate Atlanta schools.

Alderman Ed A. Gilliam and Alderman L. O. Moseley are expected to be reelected as members of the budget commission representing the aldermanic board.

Other budget commission members are Mayor Hartsfield, Comptroller Earl Landers and Alderman John A. White, chairman of the aldermanic board's finance committee.

At 10 a.m. Monday, the mayor and city and federal officials will participate in a pile-driving ceremony marking start of construction of the multi-million-dollar terminal at the Municipal Airport.

Final Session Set Wednesday on Better Curricula

The final session of a series of meetings to improve the curricula of Atlanta high schools is set for 3:30 p.m. Wednesday.

A joint gathering of the professional and citienzs committee will hear reports on science, industrial arts, club activities and distributive education.

At the conclusion of the presentation, the fourth held in the study program, the committees will begin compilation of recommendations and prepared revisions.

Newton, Covington Named For Heroes of Revolution

Newton County, in north central Georgia, was created from Henry, Jasper and Walton counties in 1821, ranking 53rd in order of creation. It was named for Sgt. John Newton, a companion of the Revolutionary hero Sgt. William Jasper in a rescue of American prisoners. Covington, the county seat, was named for Gen. Leonard Covington, a soldier of the Revolutionary War.

Two miles north of Covington is Oxford, home of Emory Junior College, a preparatory school for Emory University. The school was opened in 1835 at Covington as Georgia (Methodist) Conference Manual Labor School, moved to Oxford in 1839 as Emory College, and to Atlanta in 1919 as Emory University. Dr. Isaac S. Hopkins is said to have started Georgia Institute of Technology in a small workshop at his home on the Oxford campus where he taught handicraft work to a few students. He was Tech's first president.

Newton County has 21,400 residents (1957 estimate), ranking 43rd in population (1950 census). Covington has 6,100 residents (1957 estimate). Other towns in the county are Porterdale, Mansfield, Newborn, Starrsville, Oak Hill, Almon, Bricks Store and Stewart. Jackson Lake extends into the south part of the county.

Newton County covers 273 square miles, ranking 113th in size. There were 984 farms, averaging 133 acres, in the county in 1955. About 45 per cent of the farm acreage was in woodlands and 23 per cent in harvested croplands. Main crops were cotton, corn and hay. About 50 per cent of the farm income is derived from livestock and dairying.

Tomorrow: Oconee County.

Railway's Road Suit To Be Heard

Constitution State News Service

GAINESVILLE—A hearing on a suit brought against Highway Board member John Quillian by the Southern Railway System will be heard in Hall County Superior Court this week.

The railroad seeks an injunction against the highway board to prevent construction along Highway 78 between Austell and the Chattahoochee River. That portion of the highway is being widened and the railroad contends its property is being used.

The suit was originally brought in Cobb County but dismissed there. Hall County is the home county of Quillian. The suit will be heard by Judge G. Fred Kelley of the Hall court.

Hospital Fund At $600,000 in South Fulton

Subscriptions in the $1,250,000 building fund drive for the 150-bed South Fulton Hospital have reached the $600,000 mark, with the half-way mark expected to be reached early this year.

The Tri-City Hospital Authority and the advisory board recently elected its officers and a new advisory board member.

The Rev. Robert O. Weaver was named to the advisory body. Re-elected were Dr. L. M. Hewitt, chairman; J. H. Cawthon, vice chairman; William A. Huff, treasurer, and F. W. Chickering, executive secretary. Also named were attorneys Ezra E. Phillips, Robert McCord and Henry G. Crawford.

The meeting also heard plans for organizations in Forest Park, Clayton County, Red Oak, Union City, Fairburn and Palmetto.

Work Hard And Pray For Others

QUESTION: I have a job in an office which is so large and in which there is so little supervision that some of the girls do practically nothing all day long. They say they are "riding the gravy train" and got mad when I said they were stealing. What is right?—R. B.

ANSWER: The accepting of pay for which a corresponding service is not rendered is dishonest. I think, from what you write, that you are correct in saying these girls are stealing.

But I am not sure you have approached the problem in a way to help. If you are a Christian, your first obligation is to see that you yourself give a full day's work for your wages. Then, as opportunity presents itself you can wisely bring up the discussion of what is right and what is wrong. If such a discussion is started in a proper spirit, some of these girls may be led to be more faithful in their work. If all tactful methods fail, it would not be unethical to suggest to the head of the office force that some system of supervision be set up to insure more effective work by all.

Make this problem a matter of prayer. See if there are not other Christian girls in the office and ask them to join in praying about it. Above all, do not assume a holier-than-thou attitude.

Thrower Named Emory Visitors Board Chairman

Atlanta banker Randolph W. Thrower has been named chairman of the recently established Board of Visitors of Emory University.

Virgin D. Jones, another banker, and businessman David Goldwasser were elected vice chairman and secretary respectively.

The new board is an advisory group chartered by the university board of trustees and will serve as a liaison body between the campus and the community.

Members of the executive committee are Julius A. McCurdy of Decatur and Dr. Carter Smith and Alex E. Wilson of Atlanta.

FOR A SAVINGS ACCOUNT

Sam may clown a little now and then, just for an office laugh. But he knows where he wants to go—and how to get there.

He's working hard. Making friends. Studying nights. And saving a few bucks every payday. Where? In the C&S Bank. In a savings account that's bank-guaranteed and insured up to $10,000. And earning regular bank interest that's added to his account twice a year.

When his Big Break comes, Sam will be ready. He'll have the know-how and the wherewith to enter business for himself.

Meanwhile, in an emergency, he has money where he can get it when he needs it. Or he can use his bank savings to get useful bank credit—a loan at lowest bank interest.

More than 145,000 Georgians are building a program of regular saving at the C&S. Come in next payday. Or mail your check to open an account. Start building your bank-guaranteed future!
